FAIRFAX HIGH SCHOOL
3500 Old Lee Hwy.
Fairfax, Va. 22030
Sampler 1996
Volume 61
Enrollment 1600

The animated juniors show their school spirit at the Homecoming pep rally in September. The pep rally was a great opportunity for classes to come together and show which one had the most spirit.

Going All Out

Animated. Lively. Spirited. Vivacious. Invigorating. Exhilarating. The 1995-96 school year can be summed up in these six words. There was something different about this year. Something magical was in the air-- the overwhelming school spirit during Homecoming Week in October as each class madly vied for the Spirit Stick or the excitement felt by fans as players as their favorite Rebel sport teams achieved numerous victories. All of the students were happy: seniors, because it was their last year of high school; juniors because they're almost seniors; sophomores because they weren't freshmen anymore; and freshmen because they were finally in high school! Whatever the reasons for all this vitality, the spirited students who came to school feeling great and being happy are what made this year so animated!

Over the summer friends had the chance to come together at Saranac in New York where they could just let go and have fun.

Showing his animated school spirit Matt Martin tries to get the seniors going during lunch. During spirit week there were many chances to show class spirit.

Leading Active Lives

Animation, personality, and diversity are what separate Fairfax from other schools. With a wide range of cultural diversity, we stand out among other schools in our area. Fairfax is the epitome of what every school should be. Our students are still very active and outgoing. Students find time to excel in their studies and make time to live a little, go to a wide range of different places, and try new things.

Who could have asked for a better day? The Varsity cheerleaders get things going with one of their cheers.

Showing off their masculine bodies students from Young Life goof around before the camp volleyball tournament.

It's time to break out the old cub scout uniform. Dylan Taylor just barely fits into his old outfit. Look at all those merit badges!

Who's New

How does America compare with your home country?

"In America everything is bigger than in Germany; the stores, houses, and schools. My country is not so multicultural. America is more extreme in many ways concerning the weather and beliefs. You have a lot of different customs which we don't have in Germany, such as Halloween and Thanksgiving."

-Katharina Kreen

"That's impossible, you can't compare anything it's too different."

-Irene Markelic

Why did you choose to become a foreign exchange student?

"The opportunity to be an exchange student was offered to me by my father's employer. That was a once in a life time chance I couldn't say no to."

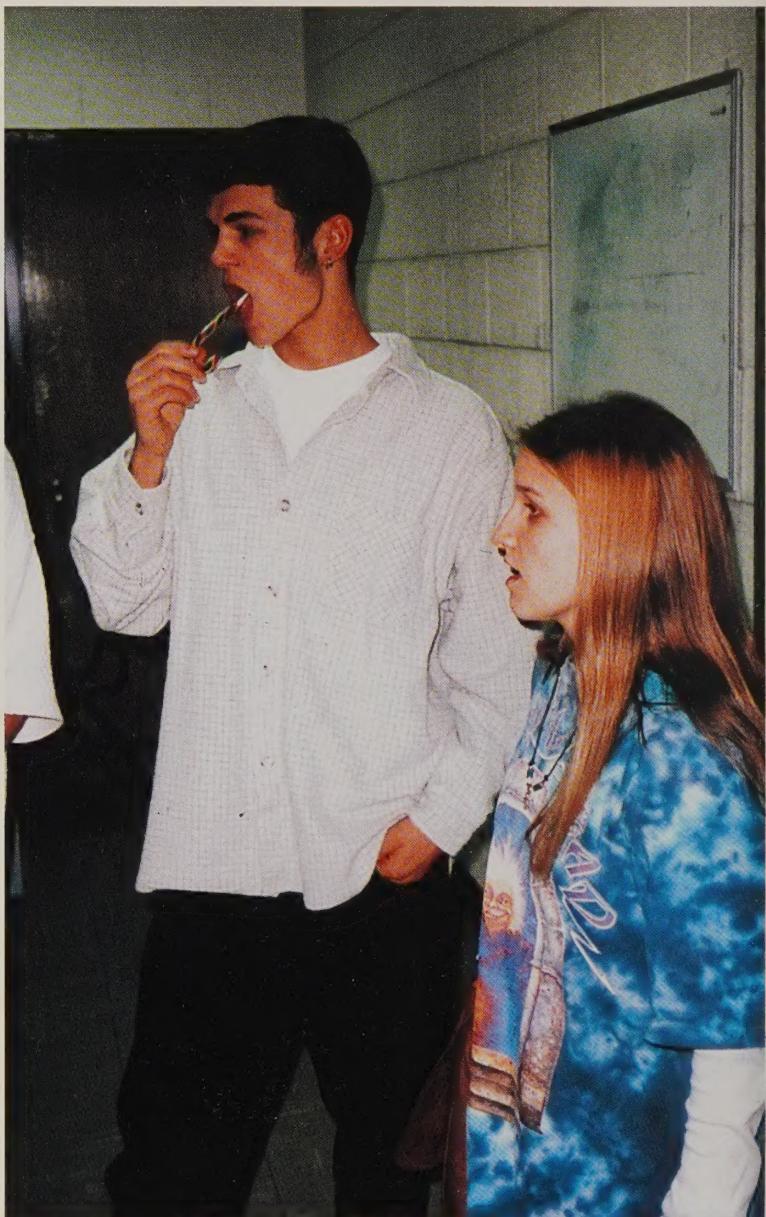

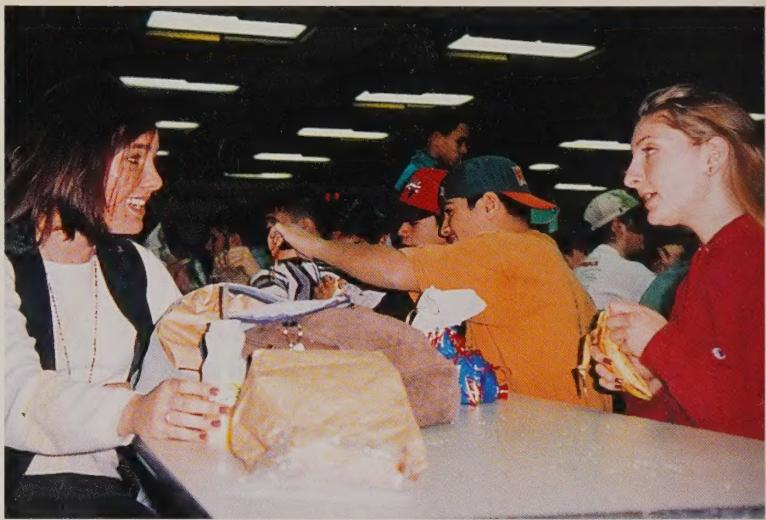

-Elizabeth Grandl

If you could change anything about being a foreign exchange student what would it be?

"First I think it's too expensive to come here and second I should be allowed to work here. I spend so much money and I have to use what my parents give me."

-Fabiola DaSilva

Talking about their weekend Fabiola DaSilva and her friend Irene Markelic update each other on what's going on.

Adjusting to a different high school can be awkward although Paul VI transfer student Chris Fabio, who had many friends in Lanier, found adjusting easy.

Print! Print! Why won't this stupid thing print? Fabiola DaSilva likes working with computers when they work with her.

Caught in the classroom, Katharina Krenn shows those pearly whites to the camera.

Getting his groove on, Jason Curry learns his way around the school. Many freshmen had to get used to the big shift from middle school to high school.

Lunch gives everyone a chance to take a break. Friends Elizabeth Grandl, and Irina Velichka talk about their day over some good eats.

Crystal Carpenter dances at the pep rally as a member of the dance team.

The marching band marches in the parade led by Ms. Ulrey and the drummajors. The band later played at the game.

The classes get into the spirit of things by cheering at the pep rally. In the picture the class of '97 cheers for their class.

The night of the Homecoming Game, Rick Stryker carries the ball against the Generals.

The homecoming court of 1995 stands outside the school the afternoon before the homecoming game.

A General Thrashing

The Best Part of Homecoming

"The Pep Rally was really crazy, but it was so much fun. Well, we're rebels and that's the way we do it."

-Emily Smith

"The pep rally was great, tearing down the senior sign."

-Jill Parks

"I loved watching senior Peter Ladinodancing in the contest at the pep rally."

-Class of '98

"I had a great time participating in the pie eating contest and waching other people make as big of fools of theselves as I did."

-Erica Elvey

"I thought that Pajamma day was a lot of fun, 'cause you could wake up and go straight to school."

-Tina Han

At the homecoming game against the Generals, cheerleaders such as Jamie Dyke and the rest of the fans shouted us to victory.

The winning Freshman float at the parade before the game. Two Freshmen wait on the float for the parade to begin.

Three freshmen friends walk around the halls at homecoming looking at everyone dressed-up. Nicole Ochs, Abbie Kahn, and Tammy Payne.

Before the Dance

"We went to Country Club of Fairfax with my date, Jerry, from Stonewall Jackson, Mary-Jo Hubbard, and Kieth McMichael."

-April Olsick

"After three hours of getting ready then getting soaked on the way to the car then having to wait forever to be seated at the restaurant, even though we had reservations, then getting to the dance and inhaling all that fog and getting pictures, but everything turned out okay, I guess!"

-Natasha Pollard

After the Dance

"After the dance my date, Tom Wolf, Jill Parks, her date, some other friends of ours, and I went bowling, it was so much fun!"

-Bridget McNeil

"My date Pat and I went back to on of our houses and watched an old movie after the Dance,"

-Katie Lang

Steve Horvath and his date Alicia Kerr smile brightly as they walk into the dance. They are both sophomores and looking for a good time.

Jenny Sequi, Roxy Binnion, Veronica Clemens, and Tiffany Ball discuss their first homecoming at Fairfax High School. They are all freshmen this year.

Sketch Quinn hits everything but his mouth in the obstical course during Spirit Week.

"Seniors rock the house," or at least the pep rally on the last day of Spirit Week.

Christine Haake is dressed as a senior citizen for "Age Day". She is one of the few seniors that participated.

The sophomores bare all for the fourth place finish in the homecoming float construction contest.

Spirit Week

What did you think about Spirit Week?

"It's really neat to see some people go all out; it's cool when they don't mind looking silly."

-Tanya Buxton

"It's fun to wear clothes that you wouldn't normally wear on a regular school day."

-Prudence Lo

"I don't like spirit week. You dress up for the school just to look stupid, and you don't even get paid."

-John Cross

"Spirit week is pretty cool. It gives you a chance to be different. It's really fun to look for the people who go all out."

-Malinda Kachi

"There's nothing like it. Almost everyone gets involved. It's fun to watch everyone get dressed up in funky clothes. It expresses the epitome of what our school represents."

-Steve Long

"Spirit week was so much fun! I love seeing everyone dressed up for their class points. The best part is the pep rally, where everyone cheers! I can't wait for next year."

-Allye Bryant

"I felt the homecoming game victory over Marshall capped off a great spirit week, that and the awesome display of our drill team at the pep rally. Oh yeah Brent try to stay away from moving vehicles."

-Paul Ransom

Brent Ransom decides that taking off the cap to the bottle would be a faster way to chug and win the race.

Jim Rosa and Mike Shilling participate in the scooter egg toss and try to win for the senior class.

Sporting her curvaceous "laid back" look, Lauren Oakes scopes the halls, searching for another as unique as herself.

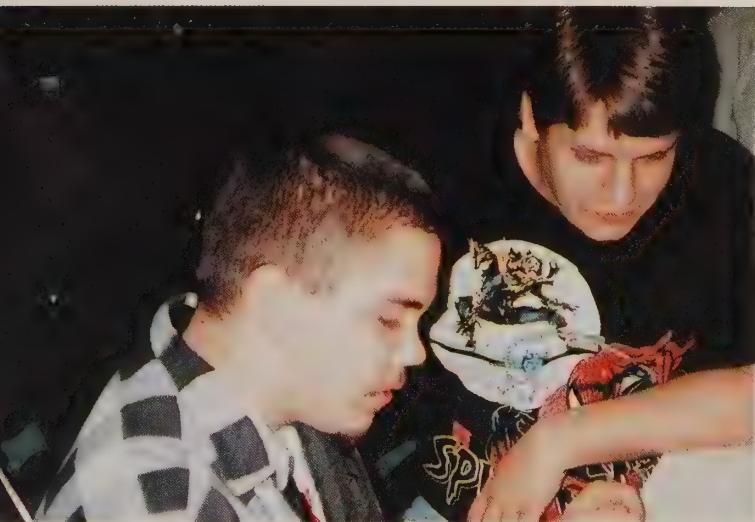

As he waits for his buddy to finish his lunch, James Riddick goes "au natural" with his close shave.

Not showing a care in the world, Eric Dunbar leaves his comb at home and lets his hair go with the flow.

While conversing with Christy choll, Trina Kingdon shows off her fiery accent.

Keeping his facial hair in sync with his head, Scott Harris munches on his lunch, while Ben Bartunek keeps him company.

Distinctive Duds

How do you deal with a bad hair day?

"I don't, it's my style to have hair going everywhere."

-Daniel Choi

"I put it up in a bun, otherwise I just have to deal with it."

-Goivanna Ancieto

"I put water on it."

-Brandon Payne

"I don't!"

-Brian Foley

"I never have to because I don't have them."

-Matt Hilton

How often do you have bad hair days?

"Every other day!"
-Katie Duffet

"Never!"
-Brennan Fowler

"At least every week."
-Melissa Davis

"Every day!"
-Brian Gannon

"Not very often."
-Lizzie McClain

"When ever my cowlick sticks up."
-Matt Wright

Chowing down on his sandwich, John Evans displays his "blue period" around the school.

Struggling to open her locker, Jennifer Yuris fires up with vivacious clarity.

Staying Together

What is your favorite thing about your close friend?

"My favorite thing about Mike is the reassuring hug I get whether things are good or bad. I get a big comforting hug."

-Amanda Kowalski

"I can't pick just one favorite thing because it would be her, although I do love Carissa's eyes."

-Tony Calabria

"I'd say her mind. The part of it she doesn't know about, but I do, and I love it."

-Mike Moran

"I love the way Mike's mind works, it's incredible the things he imagines."

-Nicole Davis

"I love everything about Gideon, but I would have to say his smile. Nothing makes me happier than seeing his smile."

-Diane Bobbio

What do you consider a relationship?

"A strong friendship and you have a good understanding of one another."

-Chanda Moorman

"A relationship is something that should never be taken for granted. In a relationship no matter who it is, you have to be able to trust one another. Trust is what a relationship is built on and if you don't trust the person you are with, then you can't communicate."

-Steve Long

"Trusting each other, being friends, and having fun."

-Paul Ransom

What is the most important thing to have in a relationship?

"I think the most important thing in my relationships is trust, although if I feel I must lie and she will believe me, why not lie?"

-Chuck Freeman

Best friends Lindsey Bruce, Kristen Day, and Nicole Davis have enjoyed partying with each other over the years.

Sharing a secret during lunch at Liz Hall and Stephanie Schneide Boy don't they look cozy? Devon Palermo holds girlfriend Mauriss Pedersen at a party early in November.

Taking a break in between dances at the Homecoming Dance, Maggie Makowka and Mark Ramsey get to know each other better.

Dating for one year, Tony Calabria and Carissa Normon believe they have a true and honest relationship. "A true relationship starts with friendship and with love for one another forever.", explains Tony.

Giving each other a hug to show how much they care for each other are Stephanie Burpee and Jennifer Stone.

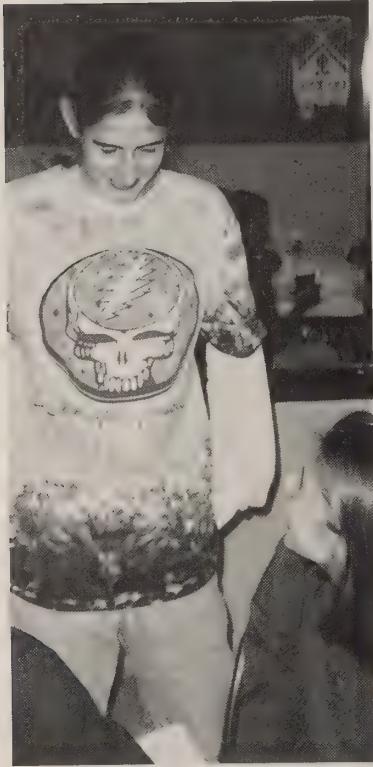

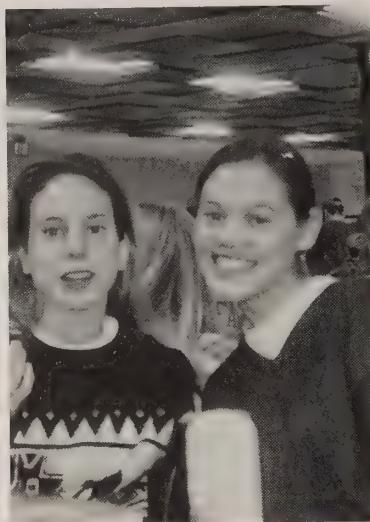

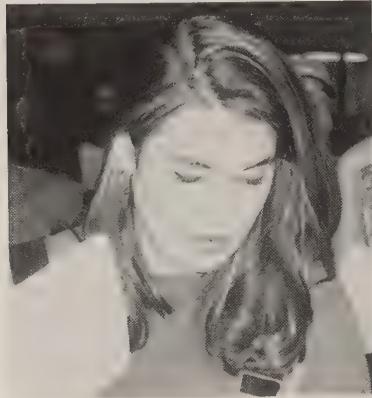

Enjoying each other's company, Natasha Pollard and Christina Nowakowski hang out over the weekend.

Giving his girlfriend a reassuring kiss, Mike Moran and Nicole Davis have dated for over a year. Nicole explains, "Our goal in life is to move out to California and live happily with Mike's career as the lead singer of Silverchair."

After spending half the year without a stereo in her car, Debbie Greene knows that "without music, driving in the car is very boring" and Stephanie Schneider agrees with her.

While catching up on all her homework, Courtney Gowen loves listening to Bob Marley.

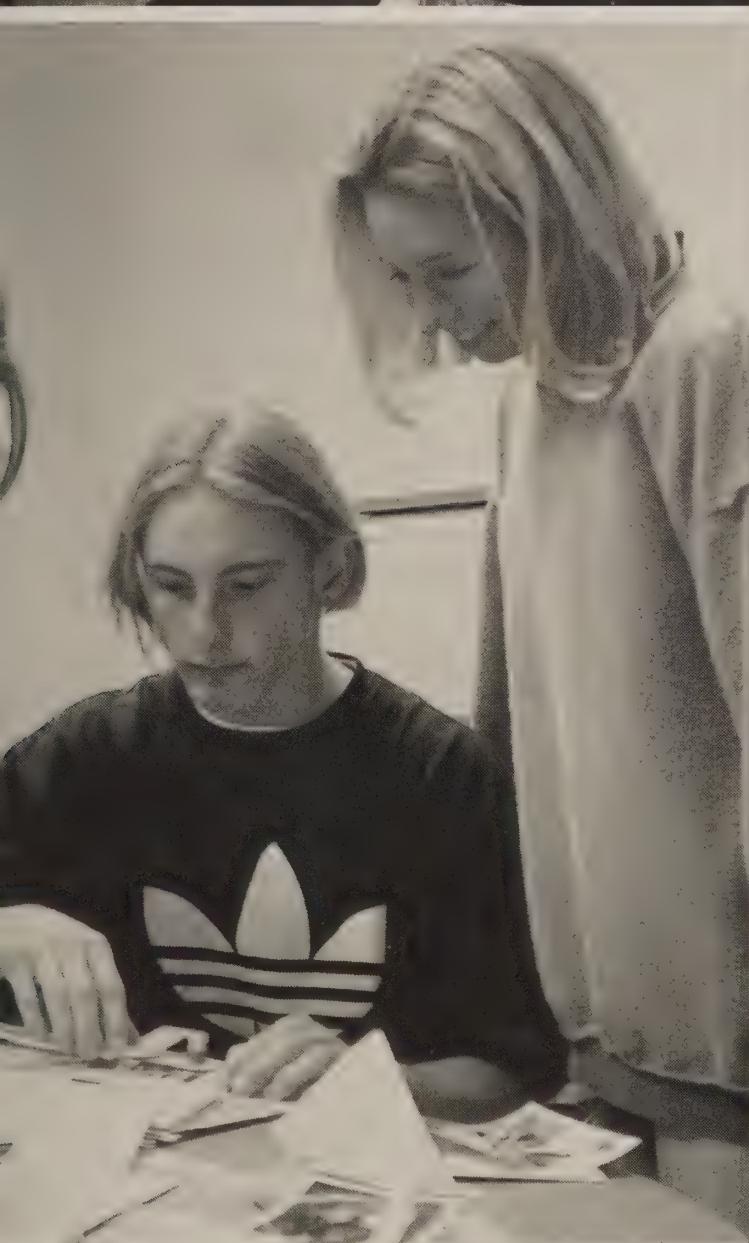

New student this year Allison Booth shows her love for the Grateful Dead. Many "deadheads" sported the tie-dye colors of their favorite band. The passing of the band's lead singer Jerry Garcia was felt by all of his devoted fans.

Showing off their similar tastes in style are Chad Martin, Rob Tuohy, and Zach Gottlieb. Redsand became a very popular brand of clothing due to its laid-back, California beach style.

Without break, lunch became a favorite time to catch up on all the latest gossip. Liz Newmann and Heather Ward catch everyone else up on all the news of the previous weekend.

Hacking has become a favorite pastime among the Senior class. Most Senior "hackers" hack during the long lunch after they finish eating and after school.

What We Like

"It seems that as you get older, your music preference changes because you mature. Students tend to listen to heavier, more aggressive music the younger they are. But as they mature, their musical tastes calm down and they start appreciating good music."

-Jim Rosa

"A lot of students listen to what their friends like or what they think is 'cool'. But as they grow older they realize that you don't gain friends by the type of music you listen to."

-Paul Ransom

"Music plays a major role in my life."

-Adam Jobson

MUSIC WE LIKE

MODERN ROCK	25%
RAP	22.5%
CLASSIC ROCK	12.5%
COUNTRY	12.5%
TECHNO	7.5%
REGGAE	7.5%
HEAVY METAL	7.5%
R & B (JAZZ)	5%

Yearbook staffers Paul Ransom and Beth Burling both enjoy attending concerts of their favorite bands. After having to spend twelve hours in line for tickets to the HFStival, the only thing Beth remembers are "those nagging flashbacks."

Two avid fans of country music are Katie Gilbert and Jessica Salvetti. They recently saw both Garth Brooks and Clint Black in concert. What was the thing that they remembered most? "Those tight pants!"

Haunted Halls

What did you do on Halloween?

"My friends and I stripped down to our boxers and terrorized our neighborhood"

-Eric Buchanan

"I went trick-or-treating and passed out candy."

-Allye Bryant

"I went egging"

-Beth Burling

"I was bogged down with AP History homework, but I handed out candy and ate the leftovers."

-Steve Long

"I went to a park and smashed jack-o'-lanterns in the basketball hoops."

-Chris Moore

"I went shopping with my mom at Price Club."

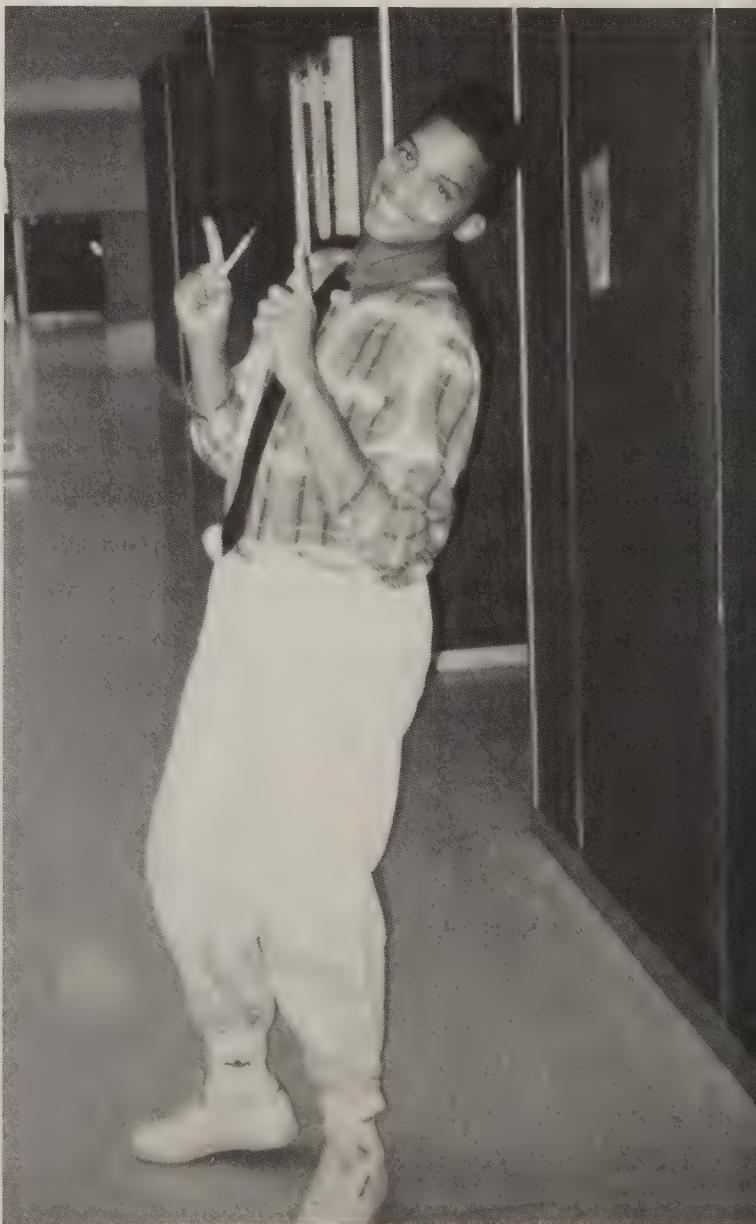

-April Olsick

"I stayed at home and watched T.V."

-Paul Ransom

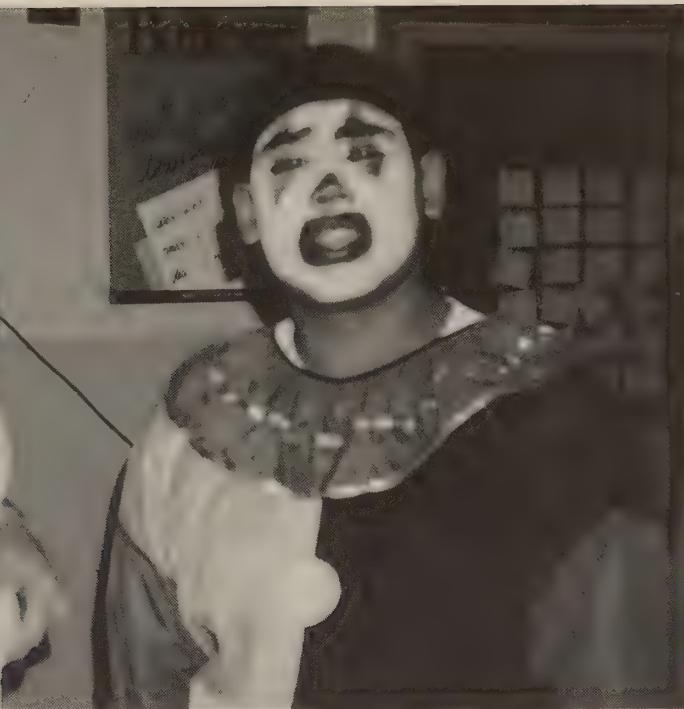

Who are all these people? There were many unique costumes being shown off this year for Halloween.

A clown stands in line for the contest wondering if he will be the big winner.

And the winner is... There was a big turnout for the Halloween Costume Contest at lunch this year.

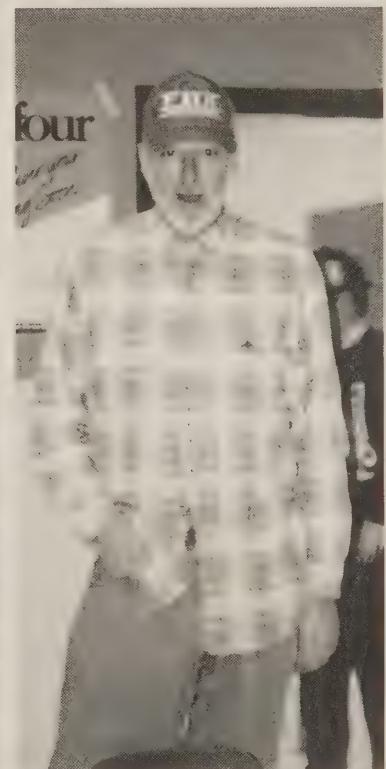

My name is Delontae Eaton, people call me Delontae Eaton. Here, Delontae dresses up as Forrest.

Someone who ate too many cheeseburgers... Mike Mahaffey dressed up for Halloween as an overweight woman.

Sticking out while trying to blend in with the scenery, Administrative Assistant Will Gideons scans the cafeteria for unruly behavior.

Is he one of us? Showing his Halloween Spirit is Mr. Dirner, who came to school dressed like a student.

Don't hate them because they're beautiful! Cross-dressers -for-a-day Nick Grim and Dylan Taylor get psyched for Halloween.

Sharing duties to help out the senior class, Kathryn Syarto and Molly Nylund are shown here.

As their last year in high school, these seniors seemed to be a little happy to be leaving high school.

Good friends Beth Burling and April Olsick have shared many memories as well as classes in the three years they have been at Fairfax together.

Parties are more enjoyable when you have friends with you to share the good times. Shown here best friends Amy Bosman and Vanessa Cappell.

Some of the Superlative winners show that their craziness can be enjoyed with their friends.

What do you consider a friend?

"A friend is someone who you can enjoy comfortable silences with."

-Kristi Pienkos

"A friend is someone who is there for you no matter how weird you act."

-Kelly Brown

"A friend is someone who won't stab you in the back for their own

I'll Be There For You

personal needs."
-Beth Burling

"A friend is someone who is always there to cheer you up when you are down, help you out when you are in need, stay with you when you are lonely, support you when you need it, give you a smile when you are missing one and be with you all the way."

-Elia Ahmadian

Senior friends Adrienne Thomas, Kathleen Coyle, Chrissy O'Morrow, and Kristi Pienkos were great friends and ate lunch together all the time.

Friends Katrina Kingdon, Cynthia Boedihardjo, and Christi Scholl, share a quick smile in between classes.

SUMMER THOUGHTS

What did you do over the summer?

"I went swimming with my friends. Amy Moustakas was being annoying one night so I ended up chasing her around the pool. I accidentally slipped and cut my leg. It was full of pus and blood for days."

-Mandy Fletcher

"I was a life guard at my pool. Other than that I had barbecues with my friends and went to Europe with my parents."

-Matt Martin

"I had tons of fun being a life guard at Greenbrair pool and rec. I had also had a great time at Myrtle Beach."

-Allye Bryant

Was summer what you expected?

"No. I did not get a chance to travel anywhere this summer. My plane to Hawaii was hijacked by terrorists; so I could not go."

-Michelle Heft

"No, I didn't think I would have as much fun as I did. It gave me a chance to just kick back and forget about school for a while."

-Nicole Davis

"I spent about half of my summer in Minnesota. It felt a little strange to come back home. Overall I had a lot of fun."

-Jesse Wertjes

Catching some rays, friends Melissa Hurley and Beth Burling enjoy the nice sea breeze while riding in a speed boat.

Getting down and dirty, April Olsick Courtney Huggard, Amy Bosman Heather Hulick, Elizabeth Hall, and Leslie Hulick hit the showers after a midnight obstacle course at camp.

What nice pairs of legs! Waiting to be seated at the restaurant Emmy Smith, Lisa Dowell, Casey Smith, Susan Schneider, and Alison Scovers have fun in Myrtle Beach.

Kids again! Students Nick Nylund, Brian White, and Andrew Kisela take a break on their way to the beach.

Posing for one last picture are Kathryn Syarto, Beth Murray, Jen Smith, Garry Sealock, and Tom Wolf before heading off to Florida.

Summer is a time to be with your best friends. Christine Haake, Stephanie Sutton, and Sandi Blood hang out.

You would think they were sisters. Lynn Brown and Sharon Griffin decide to style their hair. Cheerleading camp allowed them to cut loose.

Sitting by the sea, friends Joel Colaianni, Dan Trencher, Vanessa Cappell, Amy Bosman, and Hyun-Soo Ko relax on a bench in Ocean City. Many students took road trips last summer.

Mike Myer had a very strong opinion when he was asked about those slow people. "I think that they are slow and they need to go faster."

"Just because they have no where to go doesn't mean we don't." Tim Wolfe complains about the girl walking slow today that made him late.

Senior Chris Burr has an opposing opinion on these slow people, "I don't care, I just want to hack."

The result of one person walking slow ends up as crowds of people standing around, and it is very hard to get through.

There are just so many people in the halls of this school that I don't even notice them," explains Alex Anderson.

"Those people really need to learn how to walk." Joel Colaianni discusses with his friends about the large crowds by the math hall during lunch.

Pick Up The Pace

Get out of the way!

What do you think of the people that take up all the room in the h a l l b y w a l k i n g slowly?

"They are annoying. I feel like pushing them out of the way just so I can get by them, unless they are one of my friends."

-Steve Long

"I just want to kick them."

-Julie Stultz

"I think they should move out of my way!"

-Natasha Pollard

"They're stupid, I want to put them in a cage of turtles, so they are all at the same speed."

-Rob Mauck

"I hate those big groups of thirty people that block the whole hall to talk and get in everyone's way. Only if they could get out of the way."

-Matt Muris

"We should step on them all."

-Michele Heft

"I think slow people are stupid. Why don't they just get in the senior citizens lane? There they will be walking with their own kind." Kim Frank explains, "But I never have anything to worry about because nobody dares to get in my way."

Sarah Sath explains how he feels about people that walk slow in the halls, "If they choose to walk slow let them. Why not- it's a free country."

The Making of Champions

Animated. No matter if they're running for a score in the frigid cold days of November or hustling in practice getting back from a brief water break in the hot, dog days of August, the athletes held their heads up with PRIDE and team spirit as they strove for superiority. As Paul Ransom says, "The emphasis on TEAM unites our entire student body to excel on and off the field." The athletic program at Fairfax is a vital part of our entire school. "It [sports] gives motivation to many students who normally wouldn't care as much about school," said Andrea Major.

The football team was in need of a kicker, so this All Region soccer star, Courtney Ficken, tried out and made quite an impression.

The cheerleaders won Districts and defended their Liberty District Championship, and then went one step higher and took Regionals.

Stephanie Yoo digs out the ball and considers her options for the Rebels. She was an All-Region field hockey player for her team, which won Districts and lost in the first round of Regions.

Crushing the Competition

The funniest thing that happened this year was when

"Jay Planakis rapped to the lyrics of ODB."

-Brian Butler

"We threw Steve Ward in the shower, fully dressed out in his uniform."

-Jaron Ulrich

"Back in two-a-days when Josh Burgess was in the process of getting a new face mask and had to come to practice with no mask just a helmet and sKao will live on Steve!"

-Chris Blansett

"When coach Spelman came into the locker room and turned off the radio because of what we were listening to, was the funniest thing that happened this year."

-Will Castro

"Will Castro searched the locker room for his towel, until he noticed it was around his waist."

-Mike Hayes

The most embarrassing moment in a game was when

"I ran into the goal post."

-Derek Morrison

"I dropped a pass on the two yard line."

-Andy Nix

"Against Marshall and this guy burned me by about 20 yards, but luckily he dropped the ball in the endzone."

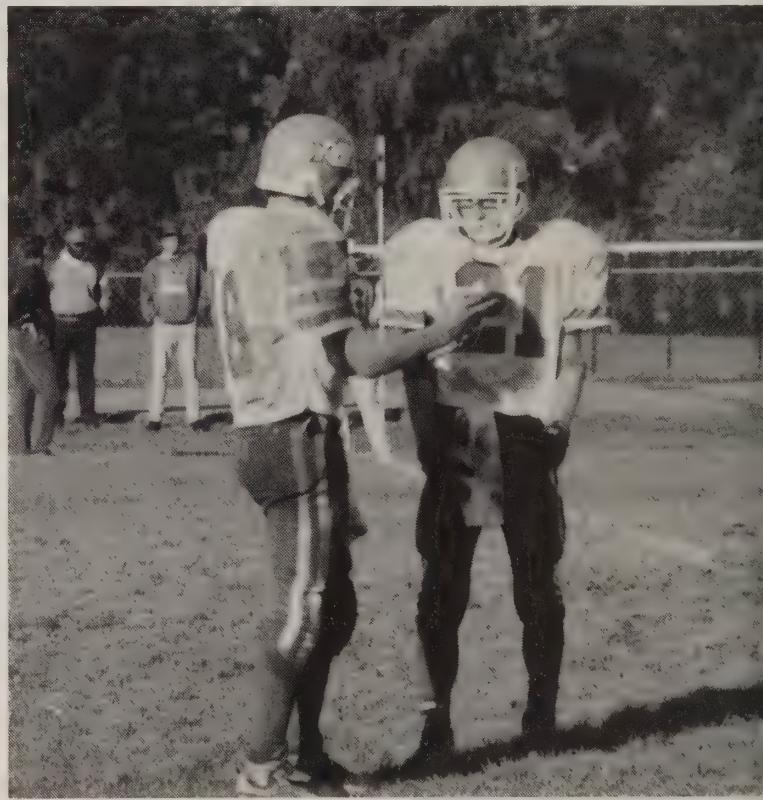

-Brian Heflin

"Against McLean I fumbled a punt then they recovered it and scored a few plays later."

-McKinte Young

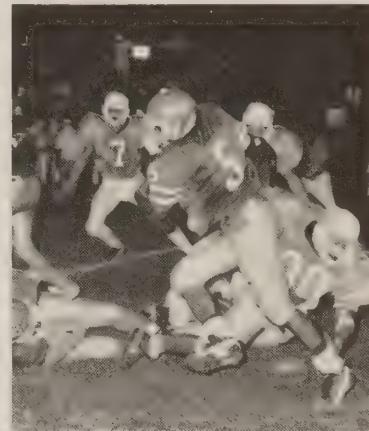

The team unites for some final instructions and words of enthusiasm from Coach Verbanic at a time out in the vital game versus the Langley Saxons.

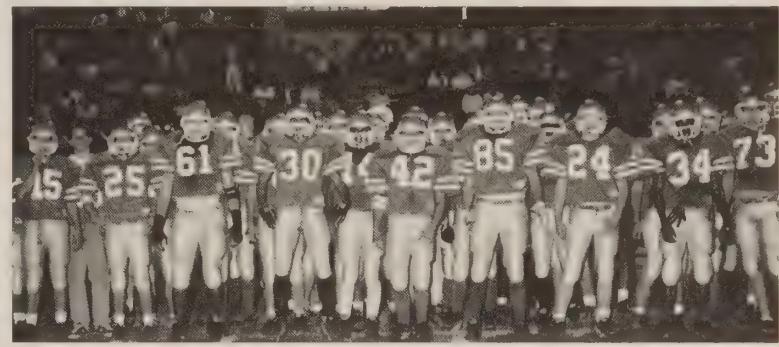

Safety Chuck Freeman instructs fellow defensive back Paul Ransom on exactly what defense Coach Ott wants.

Chuck Freeman, Jay Planakis, and Roosevelt Thompson pummeled the running back for the Langley Saxons as Mike Hayes and the rest of the defense is on their way.

Senior John Moore breaks free from the would be tackler, as the players ran away from the Statemen.

The team members psyche themselves up on the sidelines before the Homecoming game against the Marshall Statesmen.

"I plan to be all I can be and more."

-Bo Reynolds

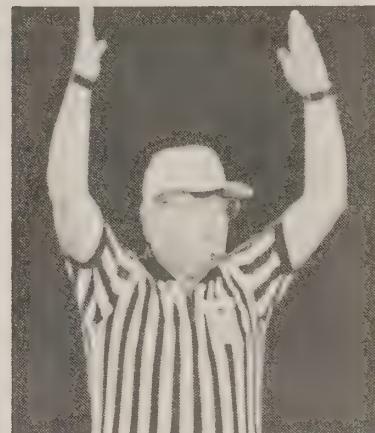

Halfback J.B Kuykendall assists Eric Wade in breaking a tackle on his way toward another first down for Fairfax which added to the already high score.

Quarterback Eric Wade sets up an impressive two play drive which results in a touchdown.

Going unstopped, Sanjiv Narrang runs toward the goal line, protected by Guard Dan Santo.

The referee signals a touchdown for the Rebels which added to the crushing victory over Lee.

After an excellent block by David Black, Quincy Metcalf is able to fly by the defense.

Sticking Around

When you look back on your season, what stands out the most?

"The practices, the running, the fun bus rides, the grass fights that didn't happen and scoring two goals!"

Melissa Lewis

"Our team always had fun together no matter what...and it showed when we played!"

Katie Laing

"I had a lot of fun playing field hockey because I got to play with my best friends!"

Stephanie Schneider

If there was one thing that occurred this season that you would want to change what would it be?

"When we lost to McLean in double overtime and we dominated the entire game. We should have beat them twice. They're just a lucky team that isn't very good. We'll get them next year!"

Kristen Day

"The season was great, I got to know my teammates better and I was able to make some new friends that I will keep forever."

Jill Harlow

Field Hockey is a game of concentration, coordination and fun. During the timeout of the J.V. game the Varsity players show that they all three of those qualities.

Taking a break on the sideline, sophomore Melissa Lewis, aka Frosh, and junior Kelly Brown cheer on their team.

Being double teamed Senior Sharon Smith keeps the ball under control while team mate Candice
Ibanez backs her up.

Seniors Ando Springer, Casey Smith, Candace Ibanez, Sharon Smith and Julie Chi, cherish their last year of high school field hockey.

Going For The Goal

What overall thoughts and feelings do you have about this season?

"May our sticks be strong and our balls be mighty,"

- Autumn Stark

"At the beginning of the year we couldn't catch the bus, but by the end we caught that bus, loaded the bus and took those teams to school."

-Bridget McNeil

"The season was great, but Alison, Allye, and I will have to score next year."

-Jill Parks

"These season was so much fun, I loved everybody."

-Katie Silverthorne

"We had a great year and made new friends."

-Alison Cobb

Offense is an important part of the Fairfax Rebel's Field Hockey team. Two of its most important players, Katie Silverthorne and Bridget McNeil, fight for the ball in a game.

Talking before the game against the Langley Saxons, Junior Susan Schneider and Sophomore Vanessa Clemens discuss plans to score and achieve victory.

The sophomores from right to left, Kristina Kurz, Jill Parks, Bridget McNeil, Kim Eckhoff, Vanessa Clemens, Allye Bryant, Alison Cobb and Katie Silverthorne.

Warming up and stretching before the game is an important part of J. V. Field Hockey. Here the team shares their goals for the game against Langley.

DON'T MESS WITH US!!

"This past season was the best. Winning Districts and Regionals was unbelievable and we definitely couldn't have done it without all the commitment given by everyone on the squad."

- Lynn Brown

"I would like to thank all our fans that came to support us, especially the J.V and freshman squads. You gave us a lot of motivation!"

-Cari Henson

"Cheering for four years has been fun, but nothing tops this year winning Regionals. When I heard Centerville got second, I was so happy I wanted to SCREAM, but I still kept cool and waited until they said, "Fairfax High School: Regional Champions!!"

- Sandi Blood

"Our squad works very well together and we're going to miss all the seniors that we cheered with. Good luck in the future. We love you all."

-Katie Gilbert and Jessica Salvetti

" This season has definitely been one to remember. Winning Districts and Regionals was awesome. I'll never forget that feeling of hearing Fairfax called as number one. I won't forget the girls on the squad. They're all great!"

- Christine Haake

" I would like to thank all of the football players that supported us. We had so much fun at practices. Sandi, we got our thigh stand, Yeah! Good luck to the seniors. Ya'll are awesome!

-April Olsick

Fairfax fans get ready to scream and shout after they find out that the Varsity cheerleaders are number one in the district. The J.V and freshman squads were there to cheer them on.

Here are the proud winners of the Liberty District title. With hard work and dedication, the Rebels showed up with confidence and determination.

Performing the difficult stunt called "legs," the cheerleaders perform it beautifully without any worries.

During one of the cheers in the competition, Amanda Sutherland has time to cheer and smile at the same time. Obviously, the judges were impressed.

SITY SQUAD

During the District Competition at Fairfax, the J.V and freshman squads clapped and yelled when the Fairfax Varsity won 1st place.

The freshman squads rooting on their team because they want a "TOUCHDOWN" to win the game.

While performing a chant, Alyson DiSanto looks towards the big crowd in front of her and cheers to them.

Showing their spirit, the Cross Country team piles into a crowded pick-up truck to strut their stuff in the Homecoming parade. The team looks forward to participating in the parade every year.

The Boys' Cross Country team takes a few laps around the track to warm-up. Warming-up is essential to all runners, especially those running long distances, to keep from straining their muscles.

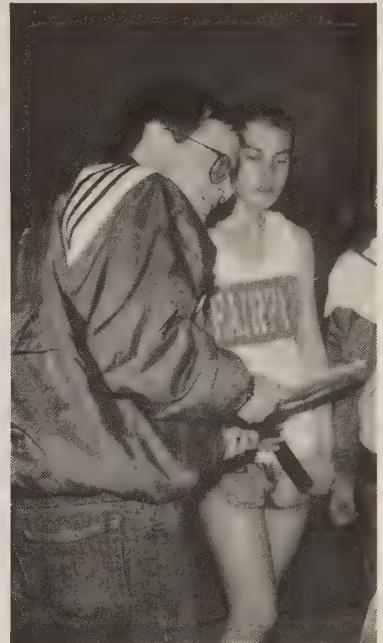

Using unconventional methods to get to McDonalds, the girls' team is glad not to have to practice for at least one day.

Chipping for Par

"I think of myself as a clutch performer, Prime Time. I am the Deion Sanders of Golf."

-Gardner Britt

"We had a fine season. Some players are obviously better than others but it's not their fault I have all this ability."

-Chris Fabio

"There is no other way I would rather spend my time than when I'm just hangin' out with my golf buddies."

-Steve Yeager

"I had a great time with Mr. Papke at practice and he taught me a lot about golf."

-Scott Landon

"We played our hearts out! I only wish our record could reflect it a little better, but it just goes to show you how stiff the competition is."

-Robert Mix

"I can't wait till next season, when we return. We will be better than ever especially without that Gardner guy! No just joking it's been fun Gardner!"

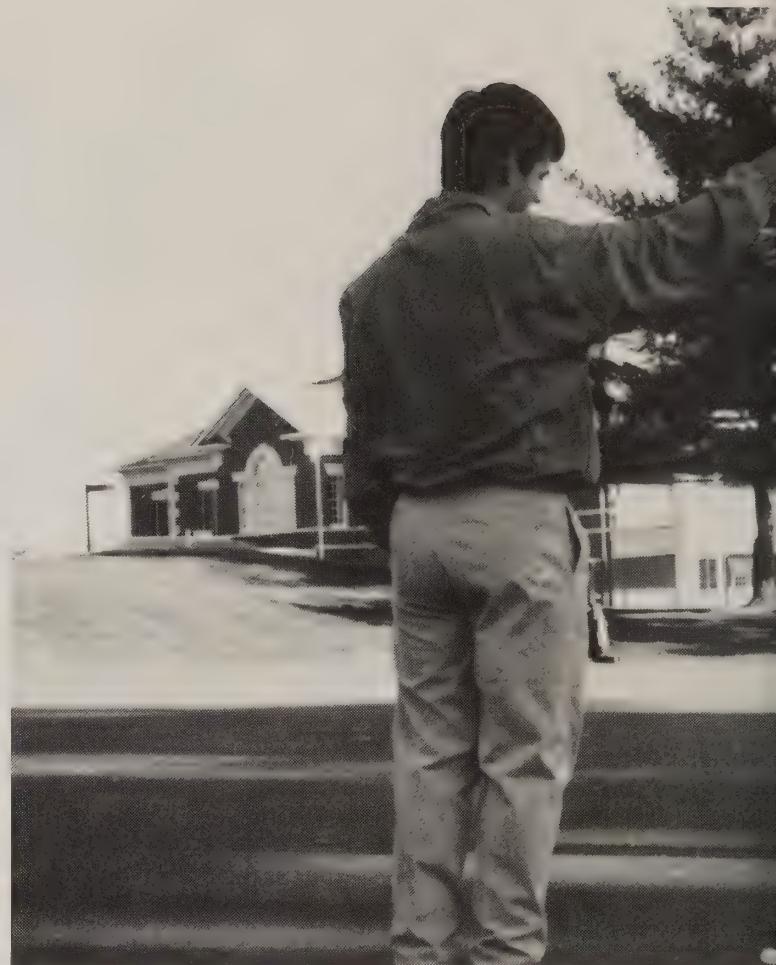

-Tim Price

"The last four years have been great. I feel sorry for all of you underclassmen who will be here next year without me. Good luck and enjoy it while it lasts it goes by too fast!"

-Adam Mastone

Between holes at the Army-Navy Country Club, Gardner Britt and Adam Mastone discuss their play and the luck of their opponents. Adam Mastone had a tremendous season with the best match play percentage on the team and was a runner-up in the Northern Region Tournament.

Team captain Gardner Britt tees off to open a day of enjoyment: golfing and competing with his fellow peers and opponents. Gardner enjoyed a fine season and was the runner-up in the Liberty District Tournament as well.

Chris Fabio sinks a beautiful putt that Tim Price admires. Chris and Tim look forward to coming back next season and dominating the Northern Region.

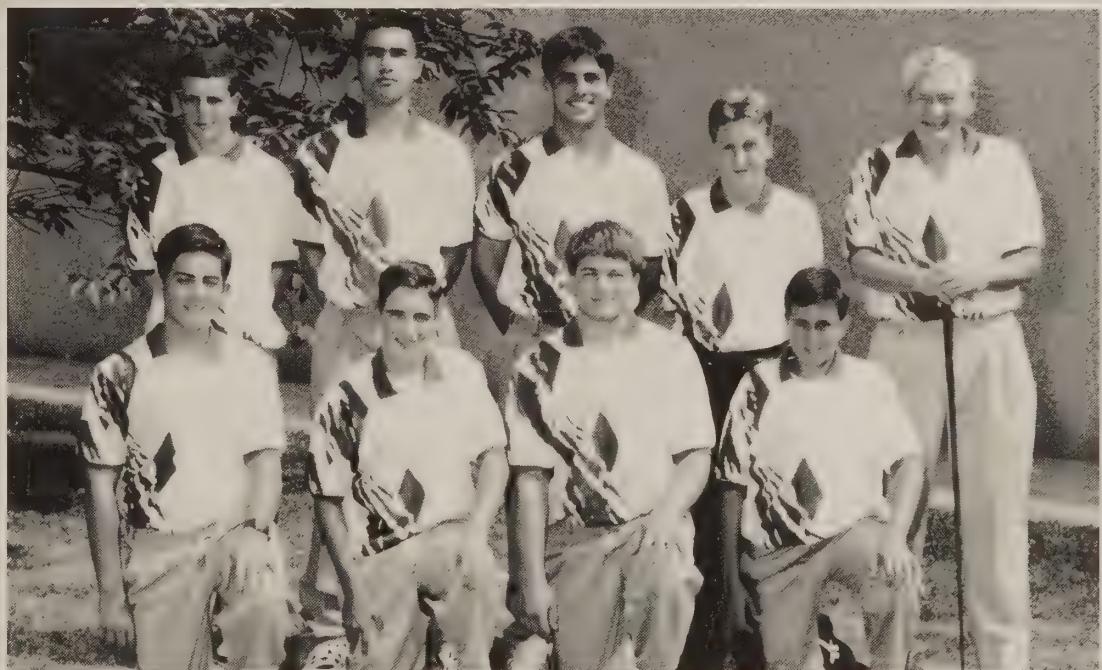

Adam Mastone attempts to get out of the ruff and chip in a putt to position himself for a leading role in the match.

Senior Robert Mix slices out an approach shot and sets himself up for an easy putt to finish off the tricky seventh hole.

What are your final thoughts about the season?

"This year's team was really close and we got along well and played well together. We hope to play at the Patriot Center."

-Chris Dempsey

"I had fun but it would have been better if I played more than 10 minutes."

-Mike Freeman

"I had a lot of fun this year. We had a really successful season!"

-Garry Sealock

"I really liked how our team always pulled together in tough times. We always came out on top."

-Mike Pollard

"I really enjoyed playing on the Varsity team. I made a lot of close friendships and had a lot of fun."

-Chuckie Freeman

"I had a lot of fun this year.

We had a really successful season!"

Driving towards the basket with not one but two defenders on him, Linny Bradley gets fouled going for the layup.

The freshman team receives final instructions from the coaches before starting the second half.

Going for the difficult basket is Mike Haake, with Brad Thomas ready to get the rebound, if needed.

Getting around two defenders as he is being double teamed is Brad Thomas.

The Freshman team shows excellent sportsmanship as they shake the hands of their opponents after the game.

Showing his creativity while going for the basket is J.V. player Joon Ko.

Junior point guard Megan Dempsey attempts to dribble through the vicious pressure applied by a Falls Church defender.

Three sport athlete Courtney Ficken pulls up for a short jumper in the lane as fellow junior, Kristy Roderick, battles in for the possible chance of getting a rebound.

Rising for Perfection

What was the high point of the season?

"The high point of the season was when we beat Hayfield."

-Beth Murray

"I thought just being there with the team was just so much fun and the whole season was great."

-Megan Dempsey

"I thought beating Falls Church so bad was pretty cool because I got some good playing time."

-Katie Laing

"I thought the whole season was really fun it is just too bad we couldn't get further in the playoffs."

-Courtney Ficken

"I made a lot of new friends and it was so much fun at practice with Mr. King."

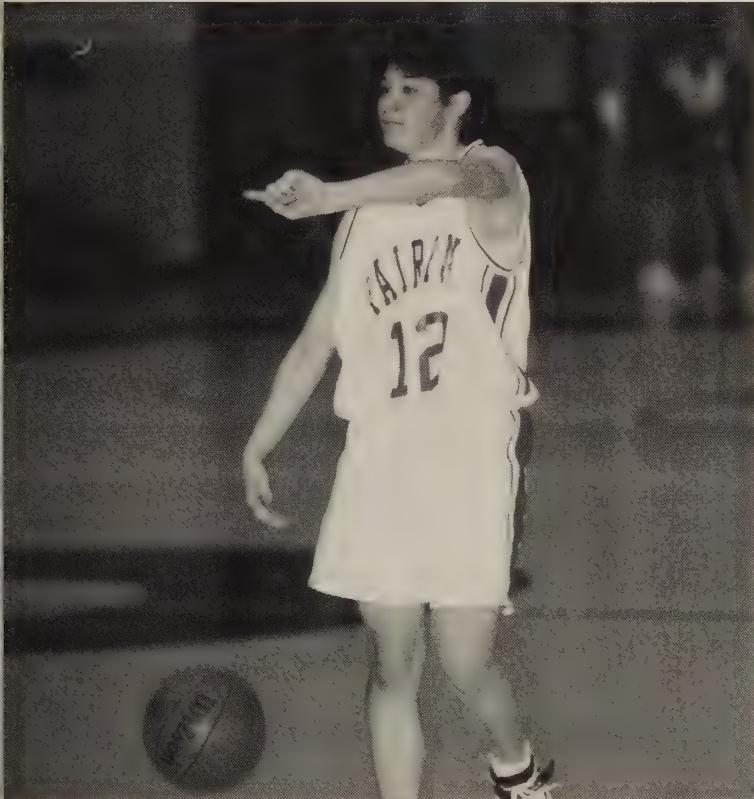

-Katie Silverthorne

"I thought playing basketball so well throughout the season was the high point. We really came together and surprised a lot of teams."

-Kristen Day

Junior guard Tommica Woods puts up a shot in the paint over the outstretched arms of the McLean defender.

One of the few seniors on this young but experienced team, Rika Drea, brings the ball up and instructs the team as the on-court coach of sorts.

Junior forward Kristen Day drives to the hole and looks for a shot to improve their already impressive lead on McLean.

Concentration is the key to free throws. Merrill Jelinek looks at the basket before letting go of the ball.

Taking a time out, Coach Cobb settles his team down. The Lady Rebels take in the advice and apply it to their skills.

On the move to the hoop is Kathleen Huff. With skills like these it was easy for the Rebels to beat Falls Church.

You have got to be tough to play here. Fighting for the ball, Kandice Minor tries to take possesion of the rock.

FULL of spirit

"Even though basketball season seemed so long, it was fun in the longrun to cheer for the teams and hear the crowds yell."

-Matrese Newman

"It was fun to cheer for the basketball players because they are so AWESOME!"

-Kristy Lee

"Cheerleading is peachy-keen!"

-Amy Bosman

"It's really hard to do two sports at a time (swimming and cheerleading), but there's no way I could give up either one."

-Cari Henson

"I had many memories of basketball season, from getting two black eyes and then spraining my ankle. All in all whoever doesn't think cheerleading is a sport needs to come try what we do!"

-April Olsick

In between first and second quarter the cheerleaders show why they were District and Regional Champs. Hitting perfect motions was part of the victory.

Pumping up the crowd are Lynn Brown and Katie Gilbert. The cheerleaders went in front of the crowd to get them involved.

Getting into the groove, Jenny Segui goes along with the chants called. Jenny was an essential member of the freshman squad this year.

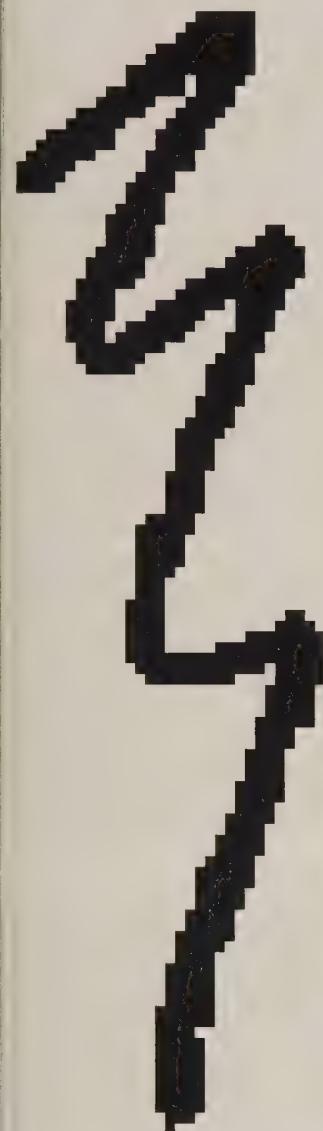

Following in her sister's foot steps, Veronica Clemens demonstrates a half-extention perfectly.

Newcomer Jenny Scott has the goods to be on the J.V. squad. She had a great time cheering this year and made a lot of valuable friends on the squad.

If you want to boogie with the Rebels, then come join the freshman cheerleading squad and find out what they're all about.

Finishing a tumbling pass, Leigh Cullen is done with her warm ups and gets ready to perform the real thing in front of the judges. She is hoping for a perfect 10!

PERFECT 10

What were your final thoughts on the season and team's performance?

"Although we didn't have a winning season, it was a great experience and a lot of fun."

-Malinda Khachi

"I thought the season went great but I loved our coach the best. She helped us with all our problems and choreographed all of our floor and beam routines."

-Amanda Beving

"As I see it, I had a great time for my second season in a row and I thought that we progressed more as the season came to a close. I got a lot of support from my friends and it was kind of embarrassing because they yelled my name whenever I was going to my next event."

- Melissa Weyrick

"While I was on the gymnastics team, I also was cheerleading so it was very hard to do both."

- Kristin Maxwell

Getting ready to celebrate after a meet are Coach Eidl, Melissa Weyrick, Amanda Beving, Michelle MacDonald, Kelly Harasek, Malinda Khachi, and Leigh Cullen.

After being thrown in for a quick swim, Coach Liz Wilkinson and the Fairfax Dive Team pose for a quick picture.

Amanda VanHolter takes a quick breath as she swims on hoping for another win to lead the Fairfax team to victory.

While swimming at Districts, swimmers Cari Henson, Tom Wolf, Melodie Ray, David Lamborn, and the coaches take time out to pose for a picture.

Splashing the Competition

What was the best thing about being on the swim team this year?

"The best thing about being on the swim team this year was being at the meets and practices with your friends and fellow teammates."

-Allye Bryant

"I loved the extra dryland practice we had on Wednesdays, especially the weight-training and the cross-country running in the cold."

-Justine McCracken

"The best part about the dive season was getting third place at districts and going on to Regionals and States."

-Wayne Fortune

"My favorite part of the swim and dive season was having to dive off of boards that didn't move and listening to Beth complain about everything!"

-Mike Perkins

"The best part about swim practice was Scratch and Go and Ann and Liz."

-Amanda Banholzer

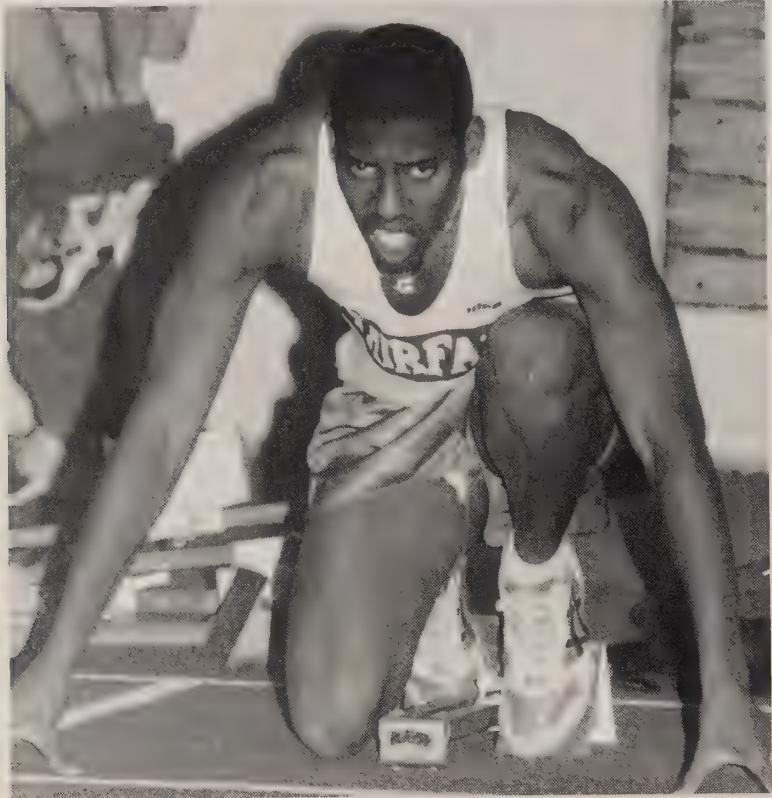

Hoping to bring in another win for the girls, Emily Alvino sits nervously waiting for her turn to swim.

One of the team's fastest swimmers, Chris Denhardt takes a breath as he sprints to the finish.

Getting ready for the race in the starting block is Derek Morrison. His speed was a great asset to the Fairfax track team this year.

Throwing the shotput at one of the indoor track meets is John Reynolds.

Clearing the hurdle and striving for the finish line, Charles Smith concentrates on his form and hopes to win it for the Rebels.

Taking one last warm-up lap before her race is Stephanie Yoo.

Rockies

Tension mounts for the goalkeeper as the ball nears.

Passing is an integral element to the game, and so players must practice diligently.

Just Kickin' It

"Our team communicates very well and we have a strong sense of team unity."

-Chad Martin

"Our team has a lot of talent this year so we're all expecting a good season."

-Zach Gottleib

"We'd like to thank Coach Taylor for all of his helpful hints"

-Dave Stebbins

"Pretty good popcorn!"

-Chris Vita

Laying out to make the save, Andy Britt sacrifices his body to protect his goal.

Keeping his eyes on the prize, Scott McDonald goes airborne for what he hopes to be a picture perfect shot.

Front Row: Isaac Uchiyama, Luis Machuca, Todd Lipman, Jeff Goode, Juan Bonilla, Craig Caputo Second Row: Patrick Cosgriff, Glen Heimgartner, Steve Rafuse, Dave Stebbins, Waldo Ayala, Kevin Gable, Justin Howard, Chad Martin Third Row: Coach Humphries, Chris Vita, Richard Tacaraya, Gardner Britt, Bobby Stevens, Peter Ladino, Zach Gottleib, Scottie McDonald, Wilbur Galaes, Coach Taylor

Senior Glenn Heimgartner shows what he's made of with this scissor kick. His teammates were quite impressed.

Showing his acrobatic skills, Chris Vita executes this bicycle kick with perfection.

Massive Kicks

What is your favorite thing about being on the team?

"Team outings to IHOP for breakfast, game day, jammin' to the SCAT man during warm-ups, and most of all winning!"

-Kelly McGrath

"I like the ride to the games on the bus."

-Haylee Hilton

If you could change anything about soccer what would it be and why?

"Using your hands would be really cool!"

-Kathryn Eagan

"I think there should be timeouts in soccer like in basketball because I get really tired during the games, and also coaches could talk to you."

-Katie Laing

During practice, Rika Drea dribbles around the field.

Running towards the goal, Kara Leonard keeps her eye on the ball.

Staying on Track

What do you like best about Track?

"I like the track meets best because everybody has a lot of fun at them. They are definitely the best part of being on the track team."

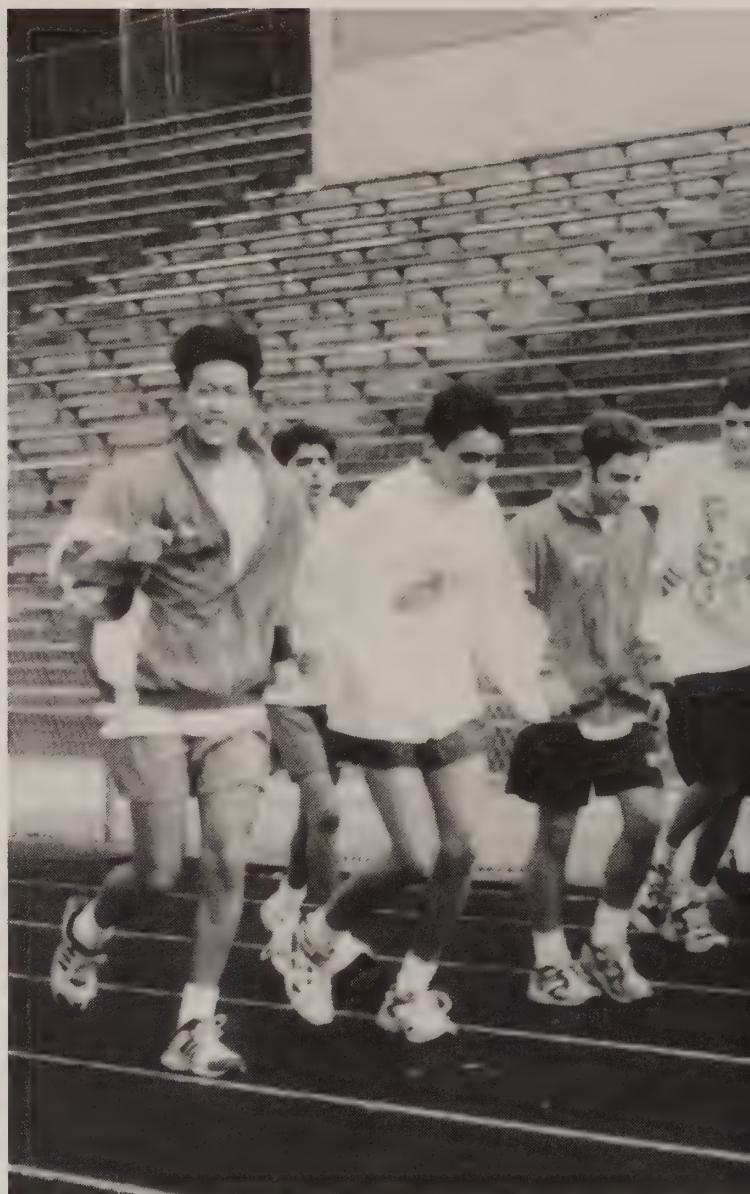

-Inhar Chong

"The best thing about being on the track team is that you get to meet a wide variety of new people. Another great thing about track is that you learn skills that will be with you for the rest of your life and which can help you improve yourself."

-Chamreun Mon

Talking with her friend about the upcoming race is Chamreun Mon. She was nervous before her first race but did very well.

The runners eagerly await Emmy Smith's signal that they can begin running during practice. During practices, the athletes would take turns running, keeping time and starting the races.

The Track team jogs a couple laps around the track to get warmed up. The pack is being led by Mike Slowik who has been doing track for many years.

Practicing an endurance excercise is Nicholas Halaiko. Endurance is very important for runners, especially if they run in lots of races.

The time before practice gives Jill Grubmeyer, Andrea Ansall, Yasmin Paraskevas and Carrie Moranville chance to stretch as well as catch up on all the latest gossip.

New Faces, Old Places

Animated. The halls are a bustling, busy place to be in the morning and in between classes. New students coming to Fairfax got the impression of a great school where they could learn the ropes of high school. Sophomores liked the fact that they were sophomores. Juniors had a hectic and challenging year to look forward to. Finally at the top, seniors would soon be checking the mail for acceptance letters from colleges and companies.

Loaded on the back of the pick-up truck, Varsity football players get riled up before the upcoming game.

Disguised in an outrageous gorilla mask David Velasquez goes wild!

Who is that? All dressed up for spirit week Kim Davis enjoys the senior life. Seniors got to wear their traditional king and queen crowns.

FRESHMEN

FIRST DAY IN A NEW PLACE

What thoughts and feelings did you experience on the first day of school?

"Overwhelmed; I was very tired but not that confused."

Mary Solina

"I couldn't find my classes!" Autumn Stark

No lost newcomers to be found in this bunch! Autumn Stark, Katie Grow, and Cara French show the confidence of upperclassmen even on the first day.

"Tired but very excited!"
Chamreun Mon

"Nervous. I felt lost." Jason Sturrock

"I got lost my first day and was late to every class." Helen Zotikos

"It was something new and different."
Tim Hobson

Figuring out their schedules, Kelly Patton, Reena Batra, and Tara Alsip look to each other for help.

The first day of school reunites Veronica Clemens, Roxi Binnion, Nyla Khalil, Aaron Cumming, and Jessica Schneider.

FROSH DO LUNCH

Where do you sit and how did you choose your seat?

"I sit at the 4th long table from the door closest to the 'T' wing. It was the only one open on the first day of school."

Natalie Dearing

"I sit near one of the center tables. I chose it because some other people I knew sat there." Julie Gibson

"I don't sit. I walk around." Casey Warner

"Across from the girls." Ryan Tietz

What are some problems with lunch shifts?

"We have to eat inside. Freshmen are being punished for something that happened last year."

Jenny Segui

"Not enough chairs." Matthew Shumaker

"Too short." Peter Skoglund

"Too many people cutting in the lines." Colin Rooney

Frosh women Debbie Park, Christine Stora, Carley Olsen, Katie Duffet, Alejandra Duarte, Kristina Rother, and Kristen Kirtley wait for more friends to join them.

What pleases them more, food or friendship? Ask Thomas Fredrick, Jim Thompson, John McNeil, and Colin Rooney.

"Where will we sit?" ask Arthur Carter, David Kettner, David Washington, and Scott Wright.

FROSH FADS

Closely-shaved and chin-length hair adorns the heads of hipsters Adam Turner and Joe Cole.

Are you into any fads that influence your clothing or your lifestyle?

"I wear baggy pants and oversized T-shirts. I'm not sure if they're fads, but some people wear them."

Robby Houtz

"I listen to music, go to parties and movies."

Saimak Khan

"I'm not allowed out on weekends, but on weekdays I go to the library as well as attend various study groups"

Mike Bran

"Jeans and sweatshirts and anything comfortable"

Kara French

"Boxers under jeans and anything comfortable"

Abbie Kahn

"I love baggy jeans & boxers"

Casie Alfers

"I like to wear my baseball cap on backwards."

Mike Haake

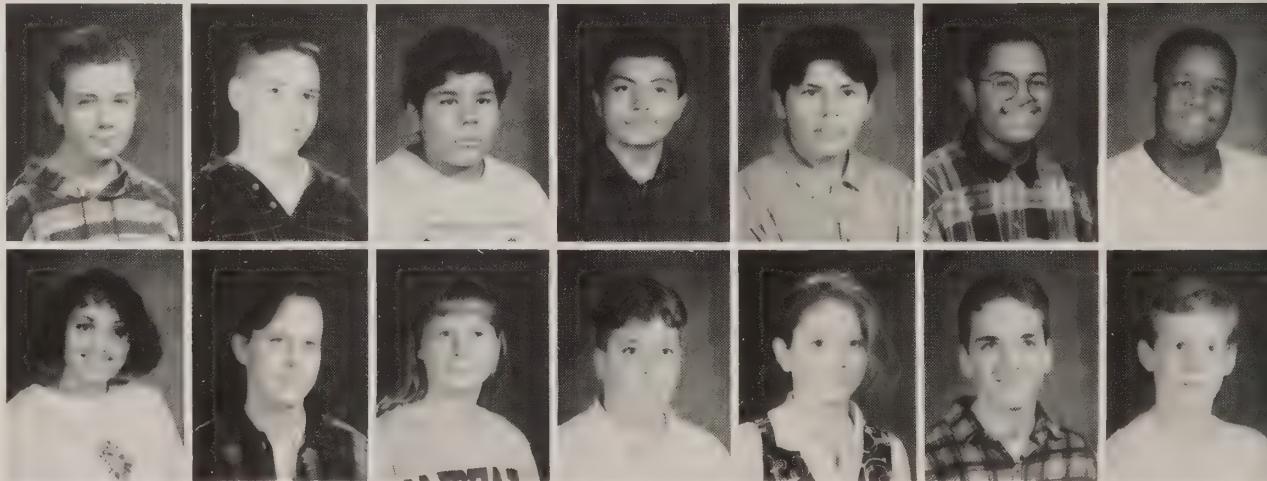

Hats are still a hot item on the heads of many freshmen, as Brad Thomas and Jared Salvetti demonstrate.

WHATEVER HAPPENED? TO - ?

Do you miss any fashions that have disappeared?

"I don't miss anything old, because I'll know that they'll come back. And if I really liked it, I'd still wear it." Tara Alsip

"Bell bottoms and disco need to come back." Autumn Stark

"Afros, butterfly collars, 3-piece suits." Jamale Ottis

What do you miss about middle school?

"My friends and teachers. At high school you have more freedom." Chanel Miller

WHO'S AWFUL?

Friends Kassie Crouse and Stefanie Daniels enjoy hanging out at lunch.

Fitting eight people at a four-person table is what being a freshman is all about: trying new things, meeting new people, going against norms.

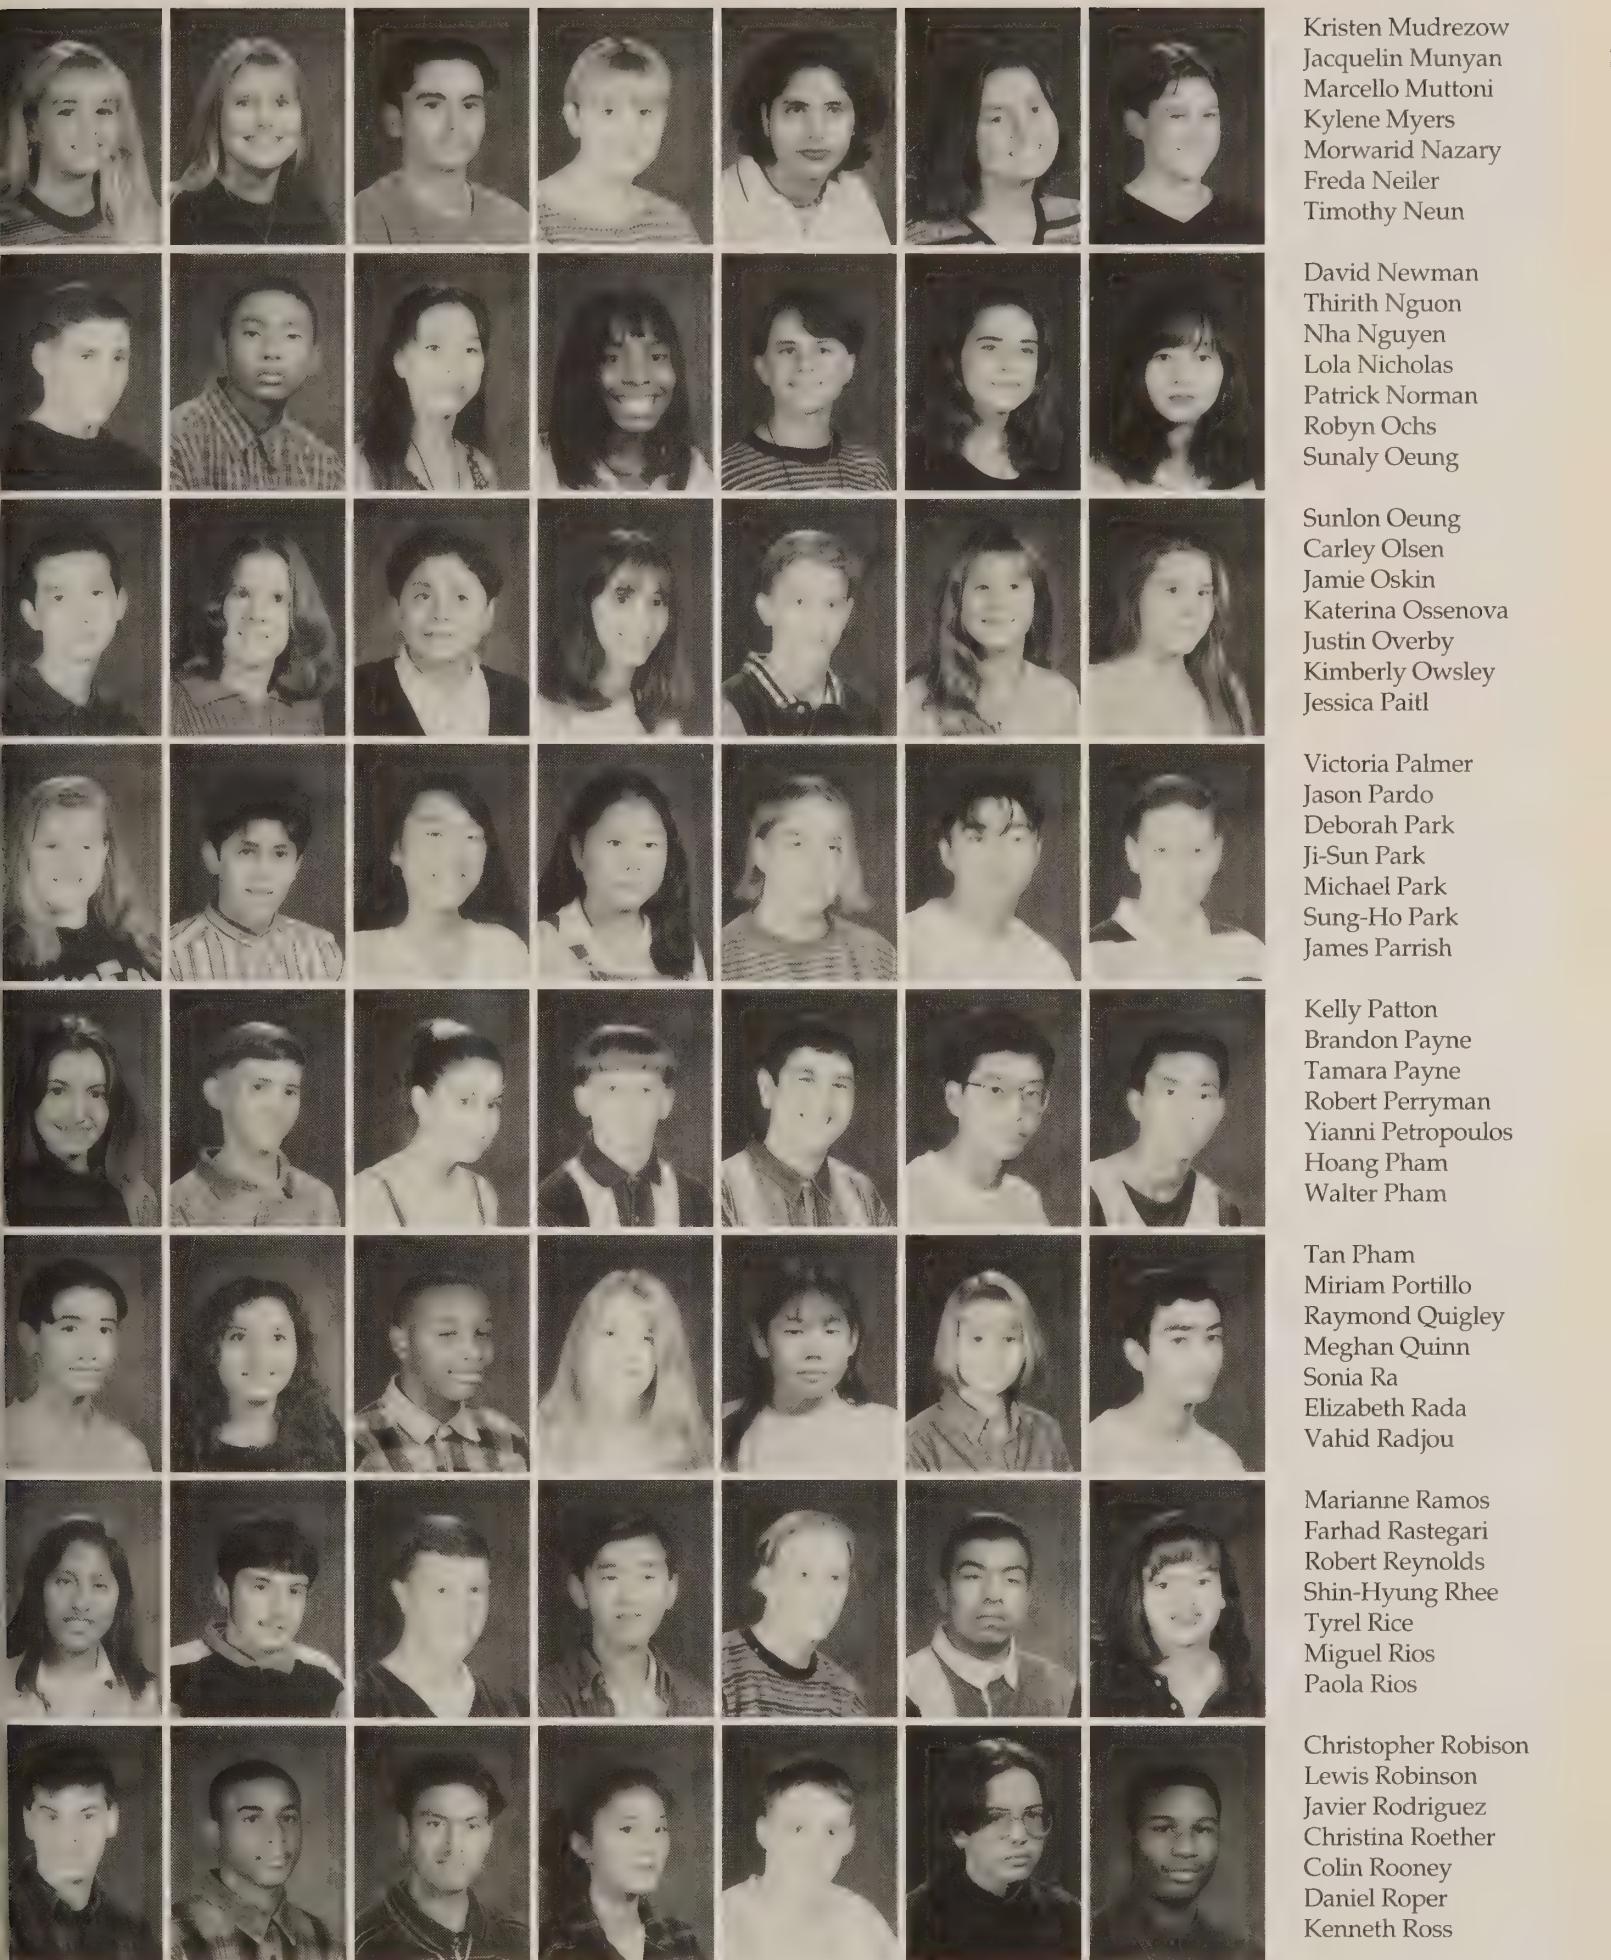

Chatting in the locker bay is a good way to catch up with old friends and meet new ones, as these freshmen have discovered.

GROUP TOGETHER

What are the benefits of group work?

"In group work you can work with others so you have less work, plus you can discuss questions you have about the subject."

-Christine Stora

"It's easier to work in groups than by yourself because you can divide it into sections and get it done quicker."

-Matt Fleming

"Group work gives you a chance to let other people do the work."

-Oren Golanski

What are the drawbacks?

"Sometimes people don't work as hard as other people."

-Colin Rooney

"People try to take over things." -Amanda Critzer

"I don't like it. Someone ends up doing all the work."

-Jay Parrish

"Not getting along with someone in your group." -Robert Cauble

"Work" becomes giggles for Jackie Munyan, Sonia Ra, and Leslie Cooley.

Exemplifying his belief that not all group members carry the same load, Colin Rooney and Natalie Dearing are the only two out of the four members doing anything.

Shakespeare researchers Nicole Thomas, Tara Alsip, and Rosa Green concentrate on finding information for their group report due the next day.

FRESHMEN LEADERS

What plans do officers have for themselves and for students in the freshmen class?

"I chose to run for office to make a difference in my freshmen peers' lives. I would like to accomplish a more spirited class of '99 and a more excited class which is up for learning new things. I want to help guide them so when '99 is over, people will think of the class of '99 as a class who made a difference."

-Jada Beazer, President

"I want to observe problems I see in the school and then address those problems with my peers so we can solve them. I would like to change the way kids think about drugs. Kids today think drugs are cool, but they're wrong."

-Drew Franklin, Senator

"Improving the school."

-Anne Frommelt, Secretary

"I would like to change how people get along with each other. I would like there to be less fights."

-Jim Thompson, Senator

"I would like to make our class the best it can be. I plan to organize fundraisers and freshman events to make school enjoyable to get our class off to a good start."

-Matt Thompson, Vice President

"I thought I'd contribute my ideas to help out our class."

-Heather Makowka, Treasurer

"I accomplished what I wanted: to be the first freshman class to win First Place in the float-making contest."

-Joshua Hawkins, Senator

"Help my class. Do well in school."

-Matt McQuinn, Senator

Behind the wheel

New drivers Melissa Windburn and Betsy Webb can't seem to find their cars after school. Could it be because they rode the bus?

What do you think about the new Learner's Permit age?

"I think it is good because we can get more valuable driving experience."

-Katie Duggan

"I think it's better because we have more time to practice driving. Instead of four months we now have a whole year."

-Angie Barlow

"I think it's good because we won't get in so many car accidents. We'll know how the car works a lot better."

-Sam Herin

"I think it is good because it gives the teenagers a good opportunity to learn how to drive earlier."

-Denise Shifflett

"I think it's cool because I can get out on the road!"

-Kim Martin

"I think it's a good idea because we get more experience with an adult. It gives us more practice, so we are safer drivers."

-Jamie Sabatino

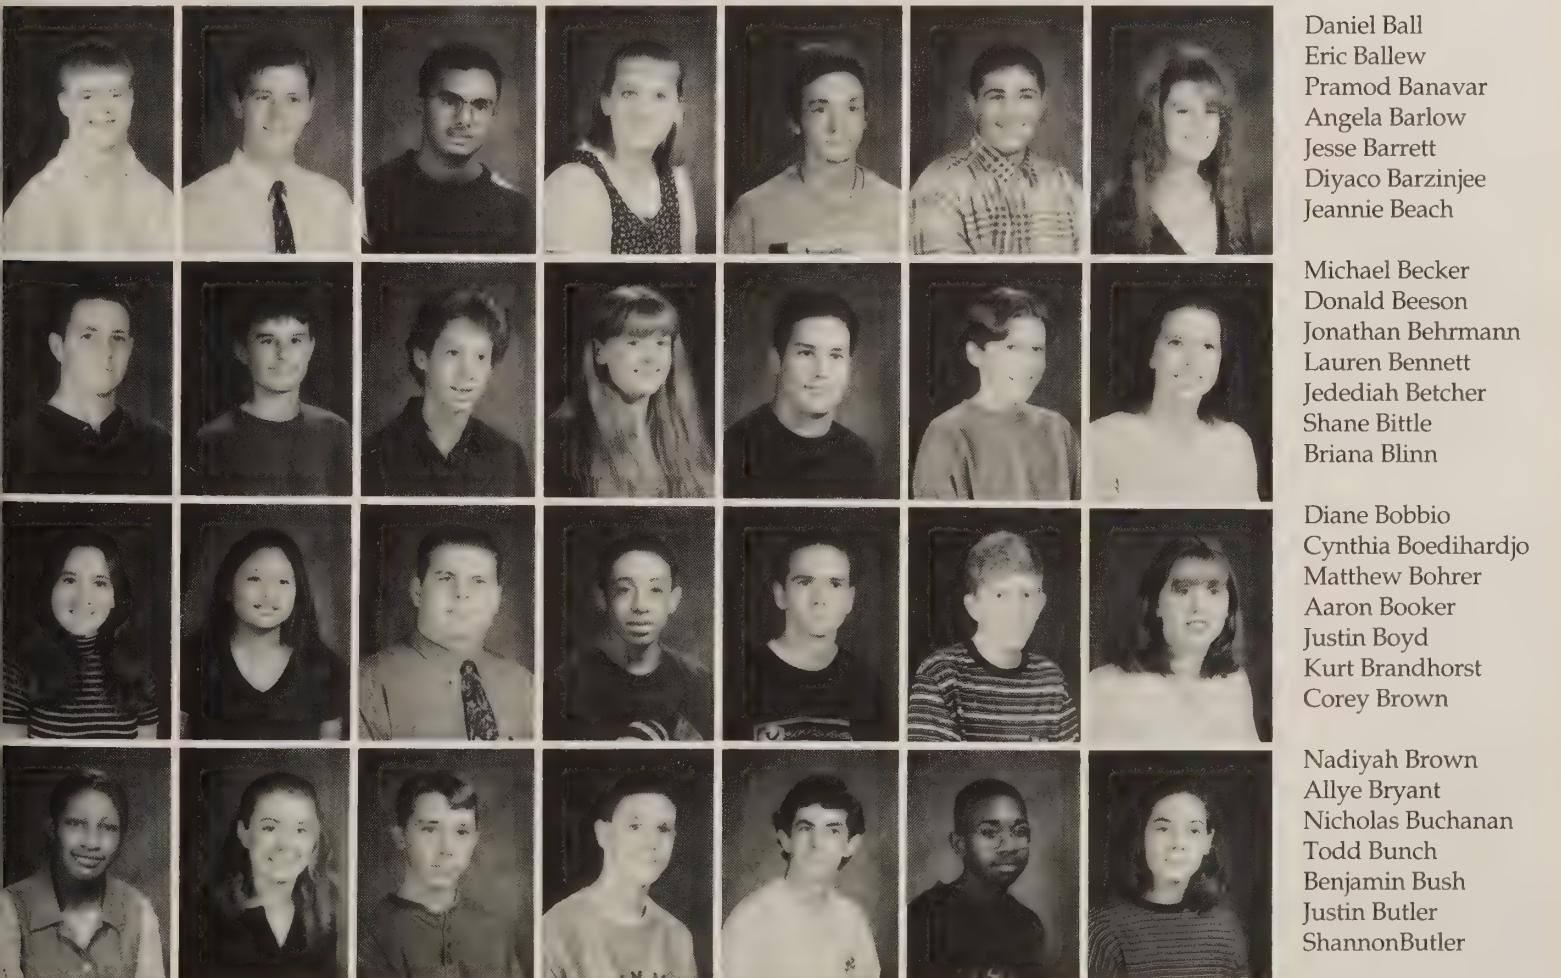

"I think it is a very good idea because it gives you a year to learn how to drive. This will also reduce the number of accidents."

-David Aponte

"I think the learner's permit is a good idea but the actual license should be moved up around six months."

-Kristy Moss

In last year's book we saw freshman Beverly Connon bumming a ride. This year with the new permit age, she no longer needs to bum rides.

What's the best part about being a sophomore class officer?

"I like being a part of the leadership class! We get to do so many cool things! It is definitely the most unusual as well as the best class I've ever been in. I would really love to do it again next year."

-Tanya Buxton

"The best part of being a officer was when we got all the chocolate candy. I loved taking all the orders and handing them out. I also liked going to all the meetings and playing an active role in making desicions involving the Class of '98!"

-Zakiya Thomas

"The best part about being a class officer is having a say about things involving the class and the flower making party."

-Dana Cook

"The best part about being a sophomore class officer is doing the car washes! I also like leading the class meetings because I'm power-hungry."

STUDY METHODS

Studying during lunch is one of the best ways to remember the material. Suzanne Gothard and friends go over math homework during B lunch.

What's the best way to spend your freetime?

"I enjoy just relaxing from my busy schedule and hanging out with friends."

-Erica Elvey

"My favorite free time activity is listening to music."

-Nick Faber

"In my free time I like to goto movies or rent them. I love movies."

-Tiffany Richardson

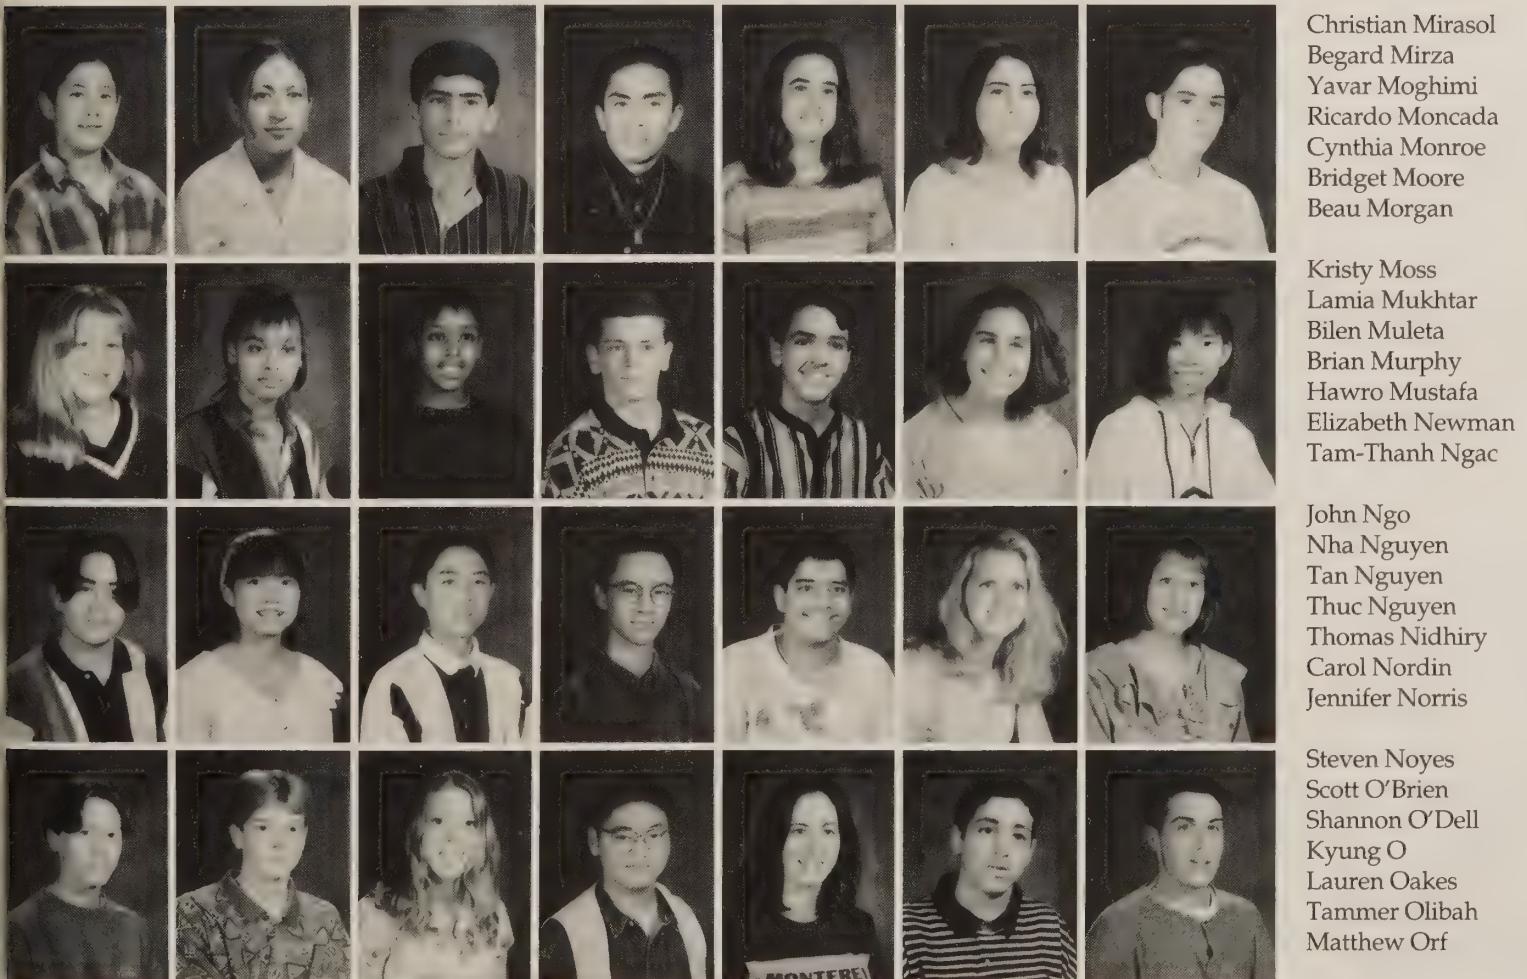

"In my free time I like to play lacrosse and be a member of the winter gaurd. I also do things with my church."

-Eunice Bae

"In my free time I hang out with my friends, go shopping, and watch T.V. I also like to play cards and bowl."

-Bridget McNeil

Participating in high school sports is a favorite pastime for Ashley Tistadt and Melissa Davis.

Where do you like to hang out?

"On the weekends I usually hang out at friends' houses, parties, the mall, or the movies."

-Bree Blinn

"I go to football practice."

-Steve Chi

"After school I go to my house or a friend's house and ride horses."

-Gillian Pemberton

"I go to my friends' houses to hang out."

-Christy Talyor

"I go to football games and the bowling alley to see my friends."

-Clara Salmon

"I hang out at the mall on the weekends because I like to shop."

-Janet Luc

"I'm all over the place."

-Rachael Kling

"Everyone elses' houses and cheap restaurants, because of the cheap food."

-Phillip A. Marquis

SPO~~E~~R~~T~~! SUPERSTITIONS

Do you have a sport superstition?

"When we go to hotels, Danielle Rinaldi takes some marbles from the plants and decorates them for our markers when we do the long jump."

- Rebecca Coffin

"For football you have to (well I did) wear the same cut-off shirt during every game."

- Chris Papachristos

"I get beat up by my team before every practice."

- Steve Ward

"I hang out with my girlfriend before every game, then go off by myself to think about my job as a player."

- Justin Long

"Before my games, I always listen to country music."

- Katie Silverthorne

"If I want to win a swim race, I have to lick my palms, eat a piece of cardboard, and dance and scream on the starting block. Drinking 3 Jolts before a race helps a lot, too!"

SUMMER BREAK

What did you do during the summer?

"I went to Mexico and visited my relatives. I also did a lot of reading and family stuff. My cousins came down to visit me and my family."

- Sandy Gonzalez

"This summer I taught my best friend how to play tennis. We went to the park every single day and it was a lot of fun because sometimes we would go over to the playground and swing. We met a lot of great people and had a blast!"

- Barbara Isanski

"During the summer I went to a lot of my younger sister's swimming meets and then I went to yearbook camp with Steve Long and Miss Hawley. I also went to Saranac, a Young Life camp, and to Florida with my family for a Chevrolet Convention."

1997 OFFICERS

What was the hardest thing you had to do to get prepared for the Prom?

"I think the hardest thing for me to get the junior class ready for Prom was to call all the companies we could think of and get the best prices around."

-Elizabeth Hall

"Raising money was and still is the hardest thing about Prom."

-Matt Hilton

What do you like about being a junior officer?

"You feel like you are helping your class and like you are doing something, not just letting everyone else get things done."

-Julio Vargas

"Teaching me to be a leader and it helps me out with college."

-Nick Nylund

What is the worst accident you have ever been in?

"Late one night, my friend and I were driving through a neighborhood with me behind the wheel. I was going way too fast, and we didn't see the turn coming up. I put on the brakes on the turn, and the car started to spin. The rear end went up on the curb, and the car eventually flipped over. I was wearing my seatbelt, but I don't think my friend was; luckily we weren't hurt at all, except financially."

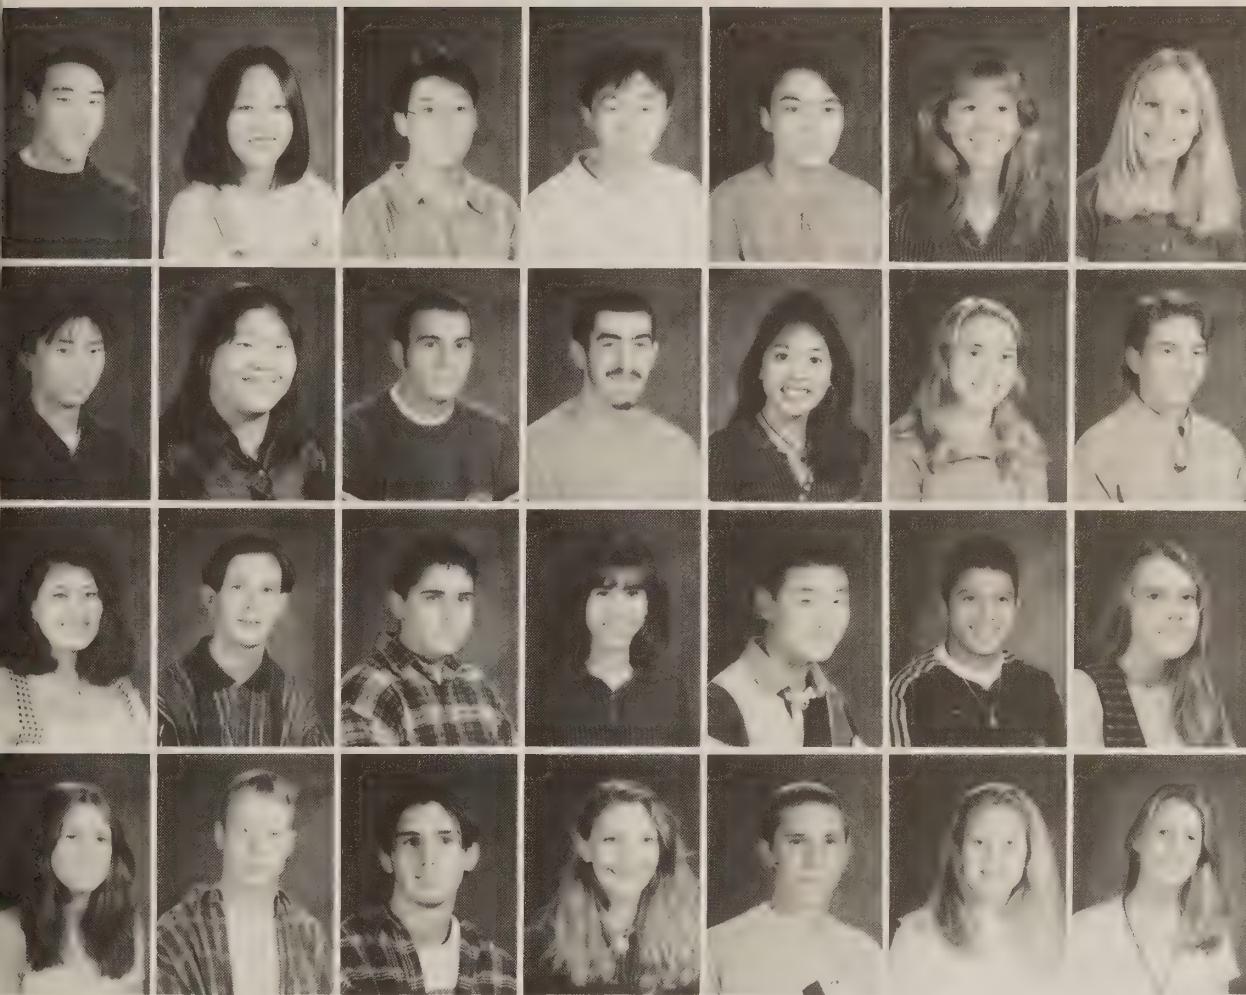

-Pat Goodwin

"About two years ago, some friends and I were driving a friend home. While we were leaving, we went around a really sharp turn going 45 mph. Since the tires were bald we started fishtailing and the driver couldn't pull out of it. We went into a ditch and would have flipped over if a little tree hadn't held the car up."

-Dagny Lovorn

"Last summer the roads were kind of wet and I was carefully watching my speed on a winding road. All I can remember was the car sailing through the air and landing 3 inches from a big tree and 17 inches off of the road. For the rest of the day, I spent my time collecting charity money and fixing the car with glue and string. My parents never found out what really happened, I covered up the whole thing.'

IN STYLE

What kind of clothes do you wear? Are you in style?

"I wear kind of like street walker clothes and I don't think I am in style because I haven't gone shopping in a long time."

- Katie Gilbert

"I guess I really don't know a lot about style, I just wear what I like. I consider myself just a T-shirt and jeans guy."

- Steve Long

"I wear nice clothes and I am soooooo in style!"

- Jessica Salvetti

"I wear clothes that I like and I don't care what anyone else thinks."

- Beth Burling

"I wear clothes that I feel comfortable in."

... FOREVER FRIENDS

The senior chairs were where a lot of the seniors hung out. Relaxing after school are Andre Recineau Chrissy O'Morrow, Kristie Pienkos, Raul DeLeon and Angela Zborat.

After lunch, these senior girls lounge around together. Lunch was a great time for seniors to be with friends because they had the privacy of their lunchroom.

Posing for the camera are pals Mohamed Saleh and Kim Davis.

LOOKING AHEAD

Working in the main office gives Katie Monroe practical office skills she might be able to use after high school.

The Career Center helped many seniors narrow down their college choices. Adrienne Thomas reads a book full of information about different colleges.

What are your plans for after high school?

"Go to space, try to find my own species-if that doesn't work, I guess I'll go to college."

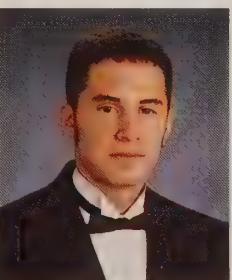

-Nadine Lee

"I plan on traveling around the world and interviewing famous people."

-Caitlin Leonard

"I plan to go to Disney World and then take Shaq on!"

Chosen as a Pep Rally relay participant, Laura Schultz was cheered on by students. How many teachers can say that they got cheers during seventh period?

In the "Dumb Looks Are Free" category, Gwen Hawley and Margo Tyree make sure that the questioning student got the response he undoubtedly earned.

WHAT TEACHERS READ

New librarian Dana LaFever has many duties, including technology and information cataloguing.

At District Band Festival, Mary Ulrey pauses to rest amid the chaos. Like all ensemble directors, Ulrey spends hours reading over the score and going through a piece measure by measure with her students.

With their busy schedules, most teachers barely have time to read. Susan Louis reads while she makes copies.

"Cartoon books! Calvin and Hobbes! Historical Fiction. I don't read enough!" -Shelley Gutstein

"Bestsellers, favorite authors are John Irving and Amy Tan." -Nancy Harper

"I like mysteries-Mary Higgins Clark and Robin Cook, and History-Sarum was excellent." -Carolyn Marsh

"Fiction, Poetry, John Irving, Pat Conroy, Toni Morrison." -Jane T. Price

"Just about anything from Anne Rice and Michael Crichton to Biology books." -Laura Shultz

"Novels of all sorts-mystery in particular." -Marlene Hartley

"National Book Award and Pulitzer Prize Winners along with a few mindless spy or mystery novels." -Steve Peck

"I read up on the top ten bestsellers and reread my favorite classics." -Laurie Podmilsak

"Mostly novels by Afro-American authors and religious books." -Beverly R. Wilson

"Fiction bestsellers, lots of new music." -Sue Alexander

"ESCAPE literature: bestsellers with no 'literary merit'." -Marlys Renner

"Bestsellers- Grisham, Crichton, or whatever is HOT." -Diane Scheurich

Hitting The Books

Animation!- You're talking to one of your friends in the hall and all of a sudden, you realize that you have only one minute to get to your class across the school. Or, you're taking a timed test and you realize that you've only got five minutes to answer 80 questions. The best one yet- you wake up in the middle of the night and realize that you have a big history project due the next day, which you haven't even started yet. It seems like students are always running out of time to do their assignments. What we would give for just one extra hour in the day! But the animated students at Fairfax don't let time (or lack of it) worry them into an ulcer. They always find time to squeeze in their homework in between band practice and basketball tryouts. They wake up an hour early to catch up on their reading or give up their lunch time to finish those last couple of algebra problems. However they manage their time, the animated students at Fairfax take everything in stride and with smiles on their faces.

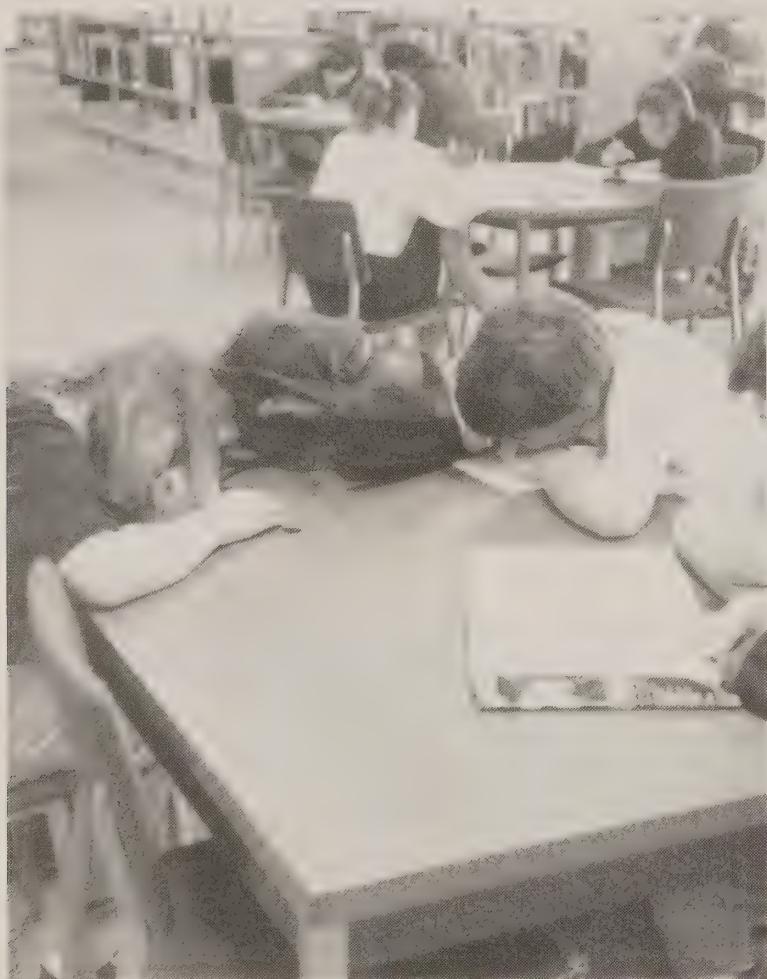

Three freshman friends stay after to do their homework. They were surprised by how much more work they had to do in high school compared with middle school.

Many students, like this sophomore, spent their lunch time catching up on reading and finishing their homework.

Matt Chamberlin and Hyun-Soo Ko relax and talk a little bit in English before becoming serious to take a test.

These freshmen have figured out that the library isn't the most fun place to hang out.

Taking a quick nap before lunch is Kevin Obando. Hope nobody's looking!

Unable to handle the stress of working on the yearbook, Natasha Pollard and Nicole Davis pass out on the couch.

DOZING OFF...

After many long hours of studying, partying, and talking on the phone, what better way to unwind and relax than by...sleeping in class!

Boredom is the main reason many students fall asleep. There's only so much some students can take! "Some of my teachers are just so boring that I can't help but fall asleep," said Beth Burling. April Olsick agrees, "When a teacher just keeps rambling on there's nothing that I can do to keep from falling asleep."

While some students sleep because of boredom, others simply do it to get through the day. If class isn't going the way that you'd like it to, why not just sleep through it? It works for Paul Ransom. "I think sleeping in class better prepares you for the next period." While this method is not recommended, Steve Long agrees that "There's nothing like taking forty winks and missing forty minutes."

Even though sleeping sounds like a great way to pass the time, it does have its drawbacks. Some teachers love nothing more than to make a scene when you're peacefully asleep. There's also the drooling problem. But Jim Rosa has no problems there. "I love waking up with drool on my sleeve. It makes me feel more like a man."

Sleeping peacefully together in the commons are Ali Jahanmir and Ian Jones. See any drool?

Although the floor can be the most comfortable place you can find to sleep, Brian Lee should find himself a better pillow.

READING RITUALS

As the school year drags on, students find that their grades have somewhat deteriorated since the first quarter began. When they are met by this surprise, certain odd methods of studying arise, some which parents and teachers say would never work.

These ritualistic nomads can be found in all sorts of areas; no place is too strange, nor too awkward to engage in this activity.

Whether they are hanging upside down in their room or doing their homework in the dark, they are determined to get it done.

This is just one of the factors that makes high school so much fun!

What study method works best for you?

"I always study my vocabulary as I walk down the halls."

-Chris Moore

"I try to find a nice quiet place in my house where I can let my thoughts run wild."

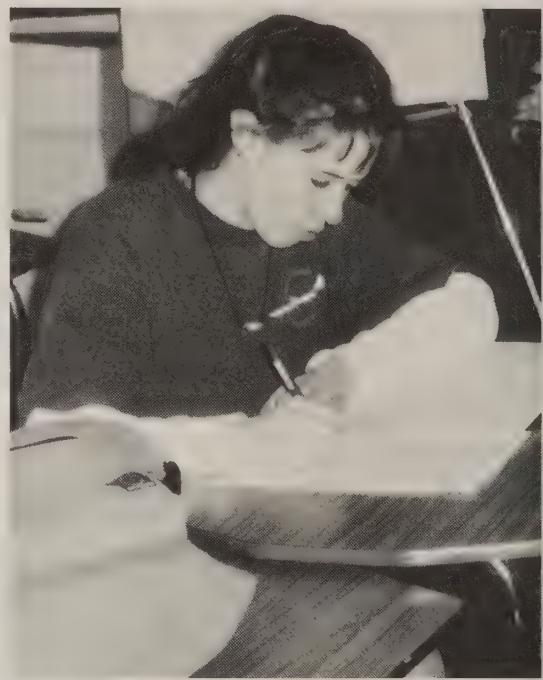

-Steve Long

"I let the bass flow through my dimly lit room."

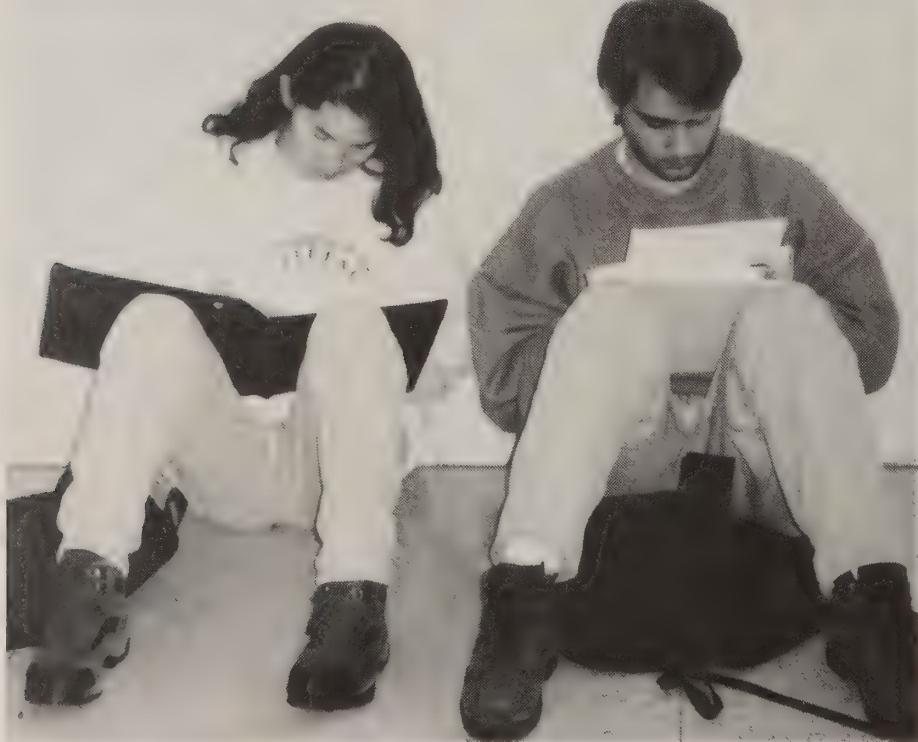

-Danny DuVal

"I like to cram for my tests with my friends."

-Ericka Eason

Taking a test afterschool, Allye Bales concentrates really hard on what she is doing.

After school Candice Ibanez and Vishal Bhatia work on their homework to get caught up because of the snow storm.

For Beth Long's enjoyment, she is reading last year's yearbook instead of the book she has to read for English class.

During lunch, Vince Santo studies and reads his English book while other people talk around him.

Reading their Spanish book and studying their vocabulary, these four girls were caught in the middle of the hall trying to catch up on their work.

Taking time out from lunch, Stephanie Schneider comes into the yearbook room for help on her reading selection from Paul Ransom.

Reading in between classes, Chris Moore demonstrates his ability to read in silence while people are walking around him.

AFTER SCHOOL

You're at your locker after seventh period, madly getting your books and jacket together before your bus leaves. Out of the corner of your eye, you notice people around you, taking their time organizing their lockers and even talking to their friends. You think how nice it would be if you had your own car so that you, too, could relax after seventh period instead of madly rushing to your bus. You may be surprised, but those people are thinking the same thing, because they don't drive, they are just staying after!

It seems that nowadays more people stay after school than go directly home after their last class. With the slew of after school programs offered, it's more tempting to stay than leave. Fairfax is known for its excellent athletics program, but for the non-athlete in all of us, the school tempts us with academic and social reasons to stay here.

Walking down the commons after hours, you notice people in the corners and alcoves, not hiding (that may not always be the case), but doing homework. Most students like to do their homework at school because they hate lugging around all those heavy books. Others just need to do something to help pass the time while they're waiting for someone.

A lot of students who can't wait until Friday stay after school to talk with friends. They can be seen sitting in the blue-carpeted areas of the commons trying to get each other caught up on the day's seven

Of course, squealing tires can still be heard at 2:16 every afternoon coming from students (and sometimes teachers) who just can't wait to go home. Students can be found after school everyday doing various things, so staying after isn't just for detention anymore!

Many students stay after school to make up tests that they have missed. This student does not seem to be having a lot of problems with her test.

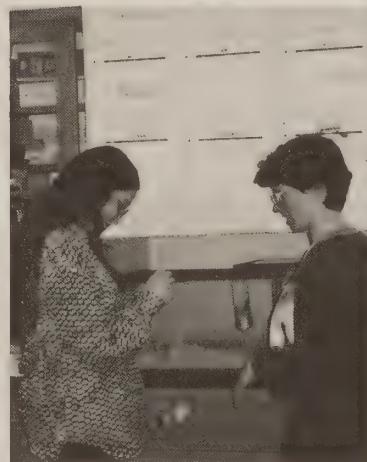

On their way to their sports' practices, Jenny Segui and Reggie Belton stop and talk to each other.

Chanel Miller and her best friend are waiting in the office after school to talk to Mrs. Wilson. Both girls are members of UNITY and SCAT.

orking hard after school, Jon White, Jen Powell, and Chris Cintron are busy building the set for the spring theatre production of Robin Hood. The espions put a lot of work in getting the set together before the date of the play. The students had to paint as well as construct the scenery.

Getting his homework done after school is Taylor Brown. He hates lugging home all of his books everyday, so he does as much of his homework after school as he can.

Staying after school to make up an experiment she missed while she was sick is Caroline Eikenberry. She's having a lot of fun playing with the animals in her science classroom.

FAIRFAXONIANS

There are many programs at Fairfax High School that seek to acknowledge the many talents and accomplishments of students, but the Fantastic Fairfaxonians program is among one of the best known ones. Each year a small group of students is chosen for the Fairfaxonians program. These students are chosen by teachers for their outstanding academic achievements in school, as well as for their talents and their contributions to the community.

The group of students chosen this year for the Fantastic Fairfaxonians program are: Jesse Flowers, Andrea Schmidt, Heidi Shin, Jason Maga, Jonathan White, Jeanine Miller, Josh Russcol, Erin Sorenson, Gabrielle Salt, Inana Blankson, Claire Butterfield, Andrea Keller, Eric Park, Lena Doolan, Kim Woo, Stephanie Sutton, Wendy Meurer, Hillary Owsley, Raul DeLeon, Suzanne Gothard, Molly Jones and Faith Scimeca.

All of these students have worked very hard, both in school and the community. Each of them rightfully deserves the honor of being a Fanastic Fairfaxonian. The yearbook staff is very proud of the students-way to go Fairfaxonians!

Reading, Jesse Flowers spends his free time working in the library.

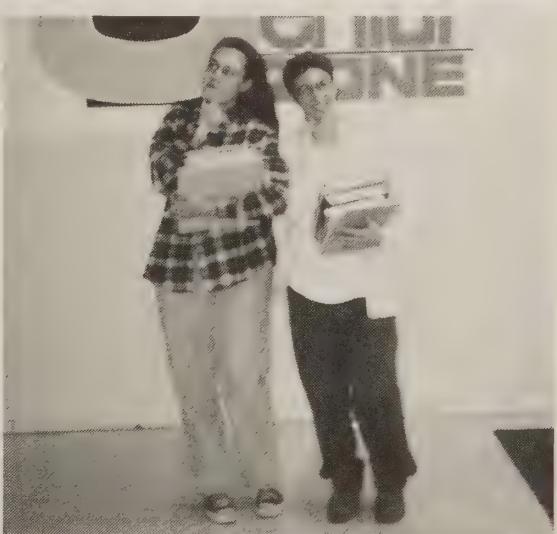

Proud to be a Fairfaxonian, Andrea Schmidt concentrates on her math while eating pretzels.

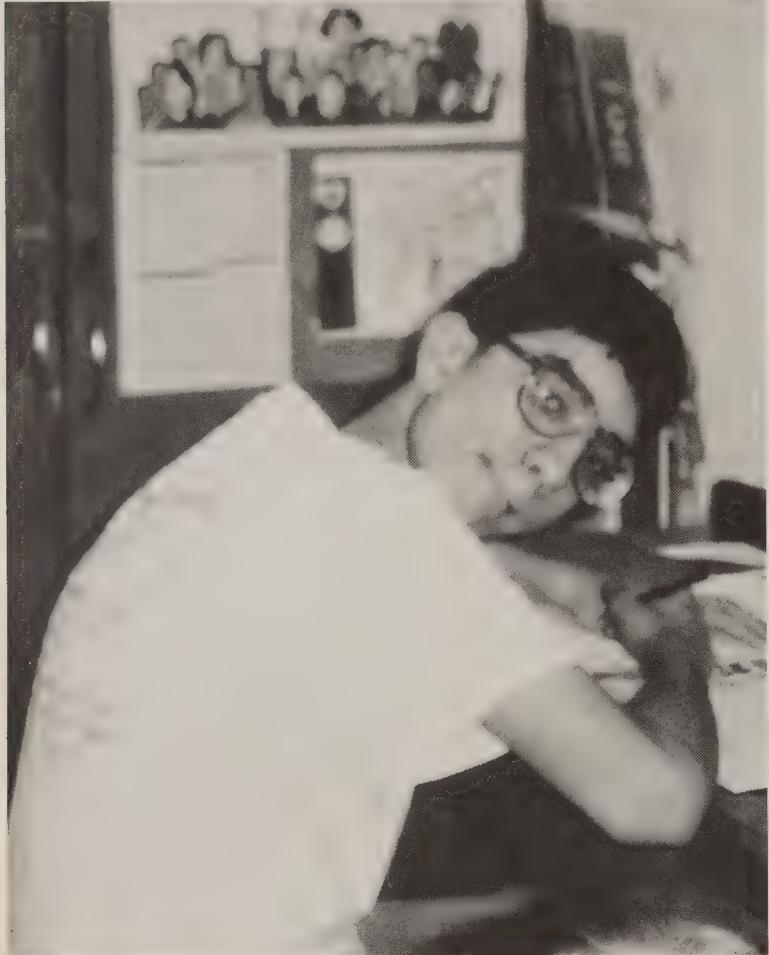

Showing off her graceful ballet dance is Molly Jones. She was chosen for the Fairfaxian program for her dancing skills.

All dressed up for Age Day during this year's Spirit Week, Jason Maga converses with his friends during lunch.

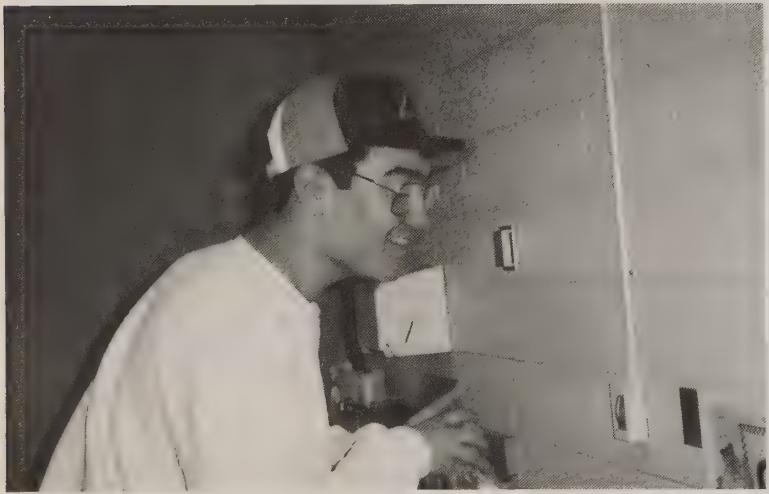

Two Fairfaxians, Josh Russcol and Erin Sorenson, had the privilege of being chosen "Most Likely to Succeed" by the senior class.

Writing a story for his teacher, Jesus Yanez stops for a second to check out who is in the room.

Ready to go home after a hard day of school, Beverly Saffa-Wuya gets her coat on and is caught going out the door to her bus.

Putting the jars in order, Mike Williams helps out with clean up after a cooking day.

SKILLS FOR THE FUTURE

In the B-wing, nestled between the business and typing classes is another type of class, known as FLEX. It is specifically designed for students who have special needs and it offers these students the chance to develop individual skills and get them ready whatever lies ahead of them.

Fairfax also offers a class for autistic students. The students like their class because it gives them an opportunity to participate in activities that they normally would not participate in. The autistic class is in charge of the school recycling program. They go around the school and collect the white paper used for recycling. The autistic students have fun in their class playing the games and hanging out with the other students.

FLEX students get real life skills by working. They get jobs through Fairfax High School including work at T.J. Maxx and the school's cafeteria.

One of the things that makes FLEX so great is the support it gets from FHS. "Fairfax is a great school. The students here are very supportive of our classes and students with special needs. Peer Helpers, Partner's Club, and our student assistants are all great role models for our students.", commented FLEX teacher Dave Jagels.

Posing here is another one of the FLEX kids in his classroom working hard.

COURSE!

Reading, writing and arithmetic- practical (kind-of) classes that everyone has been taking since elementary school and maybe used a few times. We learn valuable thinking skills in these classes, but how many of us are going to be writers or mathematicians?

That's where electives come in. "You can choose electives that are related to your future career. You get a real feel for the topics and they can prepare you very well for life after school," said Tamoor

Bhatti. Fairfax offers a wide variety of electives, and many of them are designed to get students ready for their careers. Lots of students take advantage of this availability and choose electives according to what they would like to study after high school. Future entrepreneurs can be seen in the B-Wing, soaking up the various business and marketing classes. Budding actors can be found on the stage memorizing their lines. Many seniors, who will be on their own after graduation, take cooking classes so they won't have to live on pizza. For the academically-minded students, Fairfax offers a lot of A.P. classes, including Studio Art and European History.

The various electives at Fairfax, from psychology to gourmet foods to journalism, help students sort out their interests and goals for the future if they are not sure where they are headed. "Electives are great because most of them don't assign homework. Also, you take a lot of fun classes and hang out with your friends!", said Eriin Chorovich.

It's true that you can be with your friends, but at the same time you get to meet a lot of new people who also share your interests. That (and the field trips) is what motivates students look forward to in electives- a chance to chill, relax, or maybe even learn something!

Sculpting a new idea, exchange student Fabiola DaSilva participates in Sculpture class.

Warming up for the big night, Jake Desaulniers tunes up.

Sorting through pictures, Beth Burling and Eric Buchanan decide which ones to put in the yearbook. They have really enjoyed putting their friends as well as themselves in the yearbook.

These boys enjoy spending their time during advanced PE playing basketball.

Observing her new creation, Saima Khan contemplates what changes need to be made.

Cooking up a storm in her gourmet cooking class, Kim Nguyen makes stir fry.

Taking a break from all the fun of Child Development class are Jennifer Stone and Stephanie Burpee. They love playing with the kids in the clas Doing a fun experiment in Physics, Erinn Chorovich and Marzena Fercz learn about how batteries work. The use of a computer along with this lab really helps students to understand science.

Taking a story break during Child Development, this student reads a fairy tale to her new (and young) friend. Improving the reading skills of these kids was something Child Development students helped with.

HANDS ON!

When choosing classes each year, students pick the standard English, math and history. Then they are left with four spaces on their schedules and they turn to the section of the course selection booklet that lists all the electives. Then the students proceed to close their eyes and blindly pick out classes to fill up their schedules with. Well, some do that.

Then there is the strange group of students that actually take time to think about how they will be spending their time the upcoming year. Most students blow off electives. They consider electives to be easy-A classes that were created as a way to keep us in school an extra 3 hours. Actually, electives are the exact opposite. While it's true that most electives are pretty easy and a lot of fun, there are many electives offered at Fairfax that can prepare students for the future.

One popular elective offered at Fairfax is called Child Development. This class gives students the chance to hang out with preschool kids everyday. The students take the adorable youngsters to playground to play and ride their tricycles when the weather is nice and when it isn't they have juice-and-cookies parties. Child Development teaches students how to take care of kids. That's helpful for students who are considering careers with lots of interaction with children, such as pediatrics and teaching.

Technical Drawing is another course that prepares students for the future by providing them with hands-on experience of engineering tasks. This course is designed for students who plan on becoming engineers or working with math. In this class, students gain this experience by making scaled drawings and learning how to use a computer, which will come in handy in whatever career field they choose.

Electives are designed to be fun breaks from the standard

In technical drawing, Mickey McKeon uses the help of a computer to design his dream house. Technical drawing was a class for creative people who like to design things.

Supervising the kids in the indoor-playground is Jen Powell. Whenever the weather was bad enough to keep the Child Development class indoors, the students improvise by making it just as much fun inside as outside.

The little bit of free time after Technical Drawing gives Jon Moshe Edwards some time to talk with his friends about their upcoming project for that class.

After Hours

Animated. Getting involved in after school activities proved to be very popular this year. Students in Model U.N. represented their countries well in winning many awards at George Mason. FBLA went on a exciting trip to New York, and what a better place to learn about business! DECA took a weekend trip to Orlando. The marching band did a great job of keeping the crowd excited during football games. Jazz Band proved to have another great year in performances. The Art Club allowed students to be creative and create wonderful works of art. Students shared their vitality with many clubs and groups.

Even though their float didn't win this year, the seniors put a lot of effort and hard work into it.

Keeping in line, the Step Team puts on an excellent show for the Homecoming pep rally. Their fresh moves captivated the crowd.

What a smile! Maggie Jones stops for the camera before heading off to her next club meeting.

SAY WHAT?!

During German Class, Shannon Ferry turns around to answer her classmate's question. In foreign language classes, students could really depend on their classmates for help.

As she brainstorms her ideas for the Latin Club, Liliana Ancieto looks over to help her classmate. Language clubs gave students a chance to learn about different cultures and how to work together.

After school following a Latin Club meeting, Tony Calabria and Tim Hamilton goof with their Gladiator helmets. Latin Club was a lot of fun this year and the students loved learning about Ancient Rome.

Leading The Crowd...

During the homecoming parade both the color guard and the marching band represented Fairfax. Here Erin Sorenson, Janet Luc, and Mandy Fletcher march holding flags.

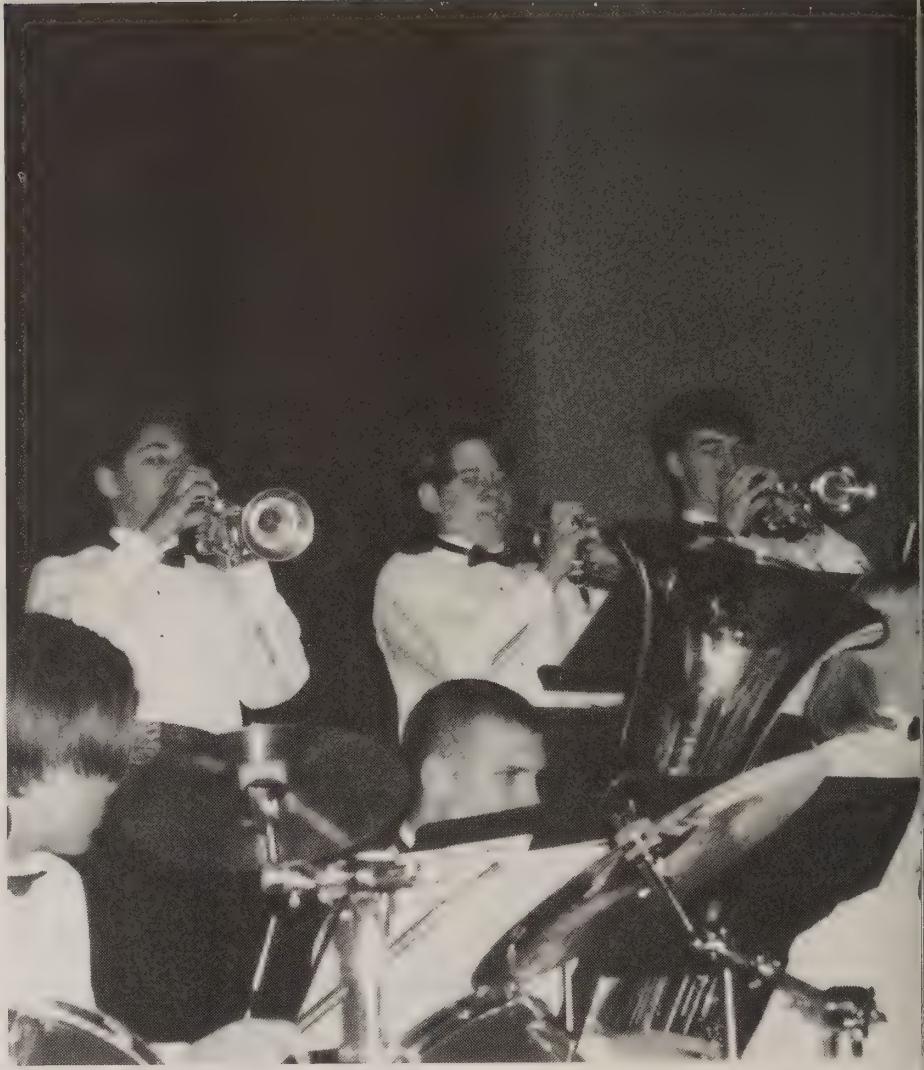

At the Homecoming Pep Rally the seniors cheered for the last time. Kelly Harasek played her trumpet for the last time.

The xylophones are part of the marching band that doesn't march. They carry their xylophones and then play on the field. Above are Sarah Moore, Peter Phail, and Justin Rice.

The Jazz Band always gives a rousing performance at the Winter Holiday Assembly. Students cheered for the cool music, provided in part by Trumpeters Will Daines, Matt Davis, and Jason Maga; Tuba player Lee Engle; Trombonists Jessi Mills and Jacob Nicolas; Drum set player Dav Glick; and Tom Mesquit on bari sax.

All-State saxophonist Jake McCray warms up in the band room. Jake was also selected to be in the National Concert Band Festival Honor Band in Chicago and attended the Berklee School of Music Program this summer.

Rhythm section members Pete Phail, Dave Glick, and Drew Franklin listen to instructions from their director.

HITTING THE NOTES

The Men's Chorus this year was outstanding! Our guys performed with perfection.

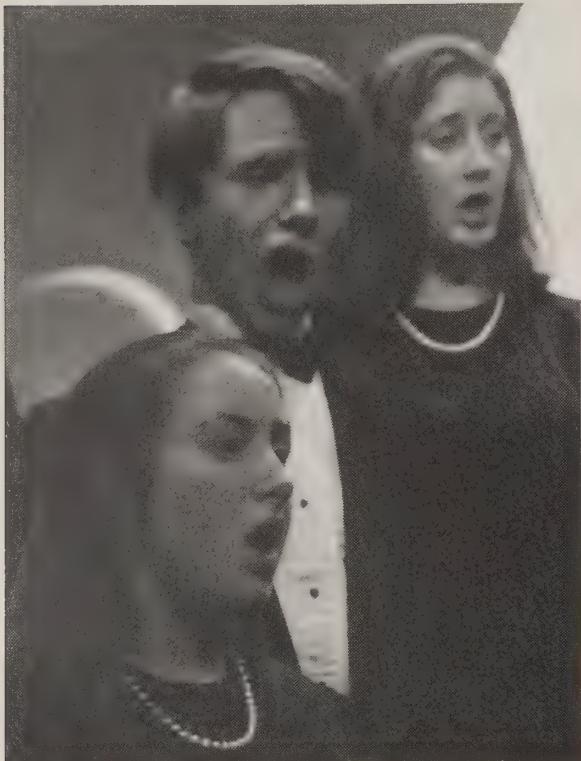

Flowing together in harmony, the Men's Chorus creates a sweet-sounding song.

beautiful songs bounce off the walls, and are carried through the halls as the Women's Concert Choir sings with their magnificent voices. The women loved participating in chorus this year. They learned a lot about singing and had a lot of fun doing it.

Warming up their voices before they start to practice the members of Select Women's Choir prepare their vocal chords for their songs.

Singing a piece in their concert, A Cappella singers Elisabeth Grandl, Glenn Meyer, and Andrea Keller put their hearts into their voices to show how proud they are to represent Mrs. Alexander.

A Chorus Line

Following Mrs. Alexander, David Kennedy, David Ma, Lucy Warner and Mike Brown, wrap up the end of a great night at the A Cappella Concert.

Under the direction of Mrs. Alexander, the A Cappella group performed exquisitely this year at all their shows.

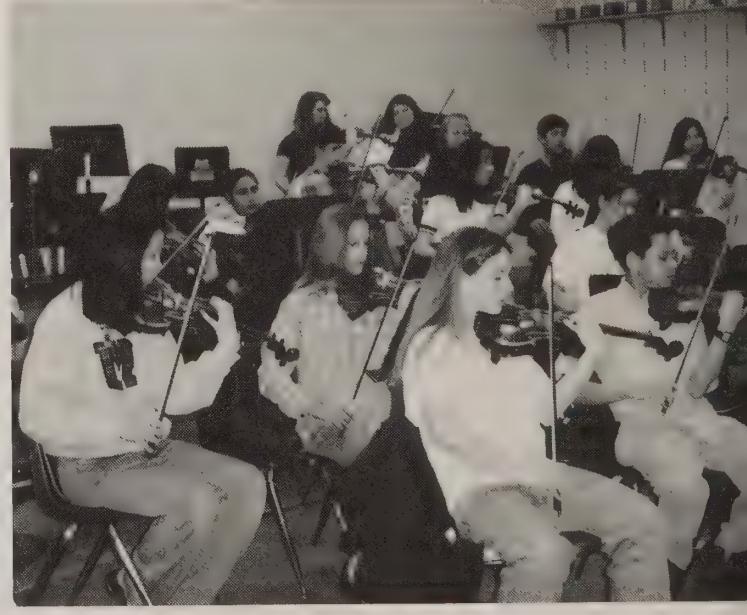

Women's Concert Choir practices for their upcoming show in the spring. Practices can last very long, but the singers know that all the long hours work pay off in the end.

Displaying her vocal abilities, Prudence Lo sings a solo in the A Cappella Concert held this past winter.

Ms. Crumb works with violin players to make sure that they tune their strings to the proper pitches.

It's hard to be the only one playing your particular instrument, but Bassist Najma Pitrez doesn't seem to mind.

"Learning to play well is a challenge, but the reward of sounding out beautiful tunes will keep me playing for hours on end," says Min Ja. Many other orchestra members agree with her.

One of the difficulties of playing in an orchestra is keeping bowing consistent throughout the section. The same note will sound whether the bow moves up or down, but the challenge is for every violinist to follow the lead of the concertmaster.

B o w n g t o P er f e c t i o n

Cellist Amber Cornelius looks beyond her music stand to the conductor, watching out for cues and entrances.

The orchestra meets in the choral room because its designated room is too small for the full ensemble. Sometimes band students also play with the orchestra in a pull-out program made possible by scheduling band and orchestra during 5th period.

In the play Antigone Chris Cintron portrays Tereisias, the blind Greek prophet. Tereisias warns the King of horrible events to come.

The whole cast of Antigone stands on stage while the Queen and King of Creon give a speech.

Acting as one of the soldiers that holds the criminal Antigone in prison, Kevin Cheung has a great time. The soldiers also carried messages in the play.

Acting Out

In the fall production of Antigone, Helenka Spatz portrays Ismene.

King Creon (Chris Suchan) carries his dead son, Haiman (Tim Connely) after Haiman kills himself.

Antigone (Angela Sweigart) talks about the deaths and funerals of her brothers. Angela had the lead in the fall play Antigone.

Under the direction of Minika Barbour, the Step Team struts their stuff at one of the pep rallies. The Step Team was met with extremely spirited and enthusiastic cheers from the crowd.

As someone catches eyes with Ronique Davis, she shows them just how serious she can be. Concentration is the key to pulling off these moves.

Moving to the BEAT

Rhythm is the key to the success of Fairfax's Step Team. The Step Team practiced for many hours after school to perfect these exciting moves.

Perfect coordination is what makes our dance team so popular with the Rebel fans. It's what really gets the crowd going.

The Dance Team shows pride by representing Fairfax High School in one of the Fairfax parades, and they look forward to showcasing their talents for everyone. The Dance Team supports community activities and the members love marching in the Homecoming Parade every year.

Around TOWN

Animated. What a word to describe Fairfax City. The soaring population brings a great variety of people here. The cultures, philosophies, and interests of the Fairfax citizens blending together are what make this city unique. There is change every day, whether a new family moves into the big mansion on the corner or a restaurant opens in the mall offering cuisine that blends rare spices and herbs for an extraordinary taste. New roads are being constructed and old ones are modified to accommodate the rising population and to make it easier to go where you want, whether it's someplace specific or a lazy Sunday drive to nowhere relying on instinct, instead of a map.

The animated Fairfax students help to develop Fairfax into what it is now. The students gladly offer up their time to volunteer for various organizations. Whether it's delivering flowers to a patient at the hospital or helping a student conjugate verbs in French, the students helped out in many ways, always ready, willing and happy to lend a hand to those in need in our community.

The Homecoming Parade was a community event as shown by this truck sponsored by the Virginia Power company.

Once a Rebels fan, always a Rebels fan. Steve Wallace and Cory Eckstein still love the Rebels even though they both graduated last year.

COLOPHON

The 61st volume of The Sampler was published by Jostens Publishing Company from the Winston-Salem, NC, plant. The Jostens representatives were Pete and Lori Griffin.

The book is one of 800 copies. It has two signatures of four-color spreads. The cover is a white lithograph. Color art was created by Michael Mahaffey. Body copy is 10 and 12 point Palatino, caption copy is 8 or 10 point Palatino, and all folio tabs are 14 point Palatino italic and folios are 18 point Palatino Bold. All headlines were created using Typestyler. ### Policy

Every student attending Fairfax High School is encouraged to submit original art, literature, photography, and music. Literature entries should be submitted in duplicate (only one (1) copy bearing the author's name) in order to ensure confidentiality when pieces are being evaluated for publication.

The editorial board reserves the right to edit manuscripts for grammar, style, and clarity with the consent of the author.

Matrix is published once per fiscal year by the Better Impressions publishing company and is sold as a component of the publications package at Fairfax High School. Individual copies of Matrix may be purchased for five dollars. All copy and headlines are set in either Times, Zapf Dingbats, or Old English Text.

All art, literature, photography, and graphics published herein are originals and publication rights have been granted to Matrix from those in authority over their respective pieces.

The Wrong Choice

Here's a dating tip for girls,
Who're confused about what to do.
"Never date a nice guy.
They'd be the wrong choice for you."

Oh, a kind and generous heart,
Is such an undesirable trait.
Not exactly the kind of person
You would want for a soulmate.

You wouldn't want a funny boy.
A yuckster's not the one.
A guy who'd brighten your darkest day,
Oh, you know they're no fun.

Never choose a smart boy
To be your ever loving honey.
They'll only be successful
And make a lot of money.

Don't ever date a creative boy.
Those boys are much too droll.
You'd probably be more comfortable
With a boy without a soul.

Oh, do be wary of nice guys,
Who'd respect and treat you right,
Who'd worship the ground you walk on,
And love you day and night.

Be ever-cautious of the gentle boy.
You keep him in his place.
Eschew he who'd never raise his hand,
To smack your beautiful face.

Y'know brute and soulless brashness,
Is preferable to sensitivity.
Or maybe a well-chiseled Philistine,
Is more your cup of tea.

So, say no to the nice guys,
Who'd hold you warm and snug.
But always do remember to;
"Just say yes to thugs."

So shun all of us nice guys,
And please do what you must,
To date the bad boys,
And to be a fool for lust.

Unrecognized Tragedy

The group walks slowly down the red bricked road
As leaves sway in the breeze, a sort of code

The group continues in the midday heat
Two columns begin to drift around
A few stalling, laughing at their poor feet
As children wishing to fly on a cloud

“Silence!” the warning is spread to the rear
“Double time, no one haws the chance to hide!”

A battle is near, the weapons are drawn
Too much like a dream that lasts until dawn

The shots are fired as quick as thunder
A few soldiers split, the fire increased
A couple down, right next to each other
Tragedy, no one thinks of the deceased

The battle will end, the soldiers will leave
But at what cost of life were goals achieved

Imagination

Detached from the soul the mind wanders Deep into another dimension the mind explores a new world of creativity
It transforms objects into transmundane

McDermott at the Bat

It didn't look too good for Fairfax High that day,
They found themselves down by two, with only the seventh left to play.
So when Hanley was gunned at second, and Obando just the same,
Disgusted looks crossed the faces of the fans of the game.

A disheartened few began to go, leaving the rest right there,
With faint hope that their favorite team would soon go on a tear.
For they thought: "I hope McDermott doesn't get a whack at that."
They knew they'd lose for sure if McDermott got to bat.

Luckily Freeman came before McDermott, and also so did Tate,
The first ones was All-Region, the other was All-State.
So on the silent crowd an anxious stillness sat.
They'd have a shot to win, if McDermott didn't bat.

Freeman lined a single, to the certainty of all,
And not surprisingly Tate tore the cover off the ball.
And when the dust had settled, and the crowd saw what had occurred,
Tate was safe at second, and Freeman stood on third.

Then from distressed fans there arose a frightened squeal,
It rumbled in the parking lot, it roared across the field;
It stuck upon the fieldhouse and rebounded just like that;
For McDermott, frail McDermott, was hobbling to the bat.

There was concern in McDermott's manner as he stepped into his place,
There was fear in his demeanor and a frown upon his face;
When he stepped into the box, the audience swore and spat,
No stranger in the crowd could doubt 'twas McDermott at the bat.

Two hundred thirty six eyes were on him as he reached down to fix his jock,
A hundred eighteen eyes tongues muttered curses and they watched him like a hawk.
Tears were streaming down his cheeks, along with a contact lens,
He looked pleadingly at the pitcher, saying, "Why can't we be friends?"

And now the pitcher starts his wind-up and he hurls the leather sphere,
And McDermott stood a-watching it in a visage of open fear,
Close by the shaking batsman the ball unheeded sped;
"Damn, that's fast," said McDermott. "Strike one!" the umpire said.

From the stands packed with people, there came a tumultuous roar,
Like the beating of the storm waves on the cold and the distant shore.
"Kill him! Kill McDermott!" shouted a cheerleader from the stand,

And they probably would have done so had not Verbanic raised his hand.
Among the scores of angry bystanders, a glimmer caught McDermott's eye,
In the front row sat a cheerleader, her hands upon her thigh.
Gaping at the damsel, he didn't notice that the ball once again flew, (Maybe I'll get lucky!) he was thinking when the umpire said "Strike two!"

"You suck!" shouted the raging mob, and the echo answered the same.
But McDermott couldn't tell them it was the girl to blame.
McDermott saw her muscles tighten, her face growing hard and fast,
He knew if the ball went by him again, she'd undoubtedly kick his ass.

McDermott tried to relax, to think of a situation less irate,
"After the game," he thought, "I think I'll ask her on a date"
"Swing the bat you loser!" she cried, as the pitcher let the ball go.
And hearing the girl's affection, McDermott unleashed a mighty blow.

Oh, somewhere at Marshall High School the sun is shining bright,
Their district trophy glimmers when reflected in the light,
Their band is playing somewhere, and in their halls the children shout,
But there is no joy at Fairfax: McDermott has stuck out.
Again.

“Untitled”

She stands before me, and I know that familiar expression.
“Jane is here, and she’s been a bad girl”, she tells me.
The words mean nothing to me, they are just frumpled thoughts; the only indication of existence from the pale, gaunt figure.
“Sarah didn’t tell you what Jane did, did she?” she whispers questioningly in a young girl’s voice.
I don’t answer her-I never did, but she doesn’t notice me and goes on.
“Bobby said that if I told you, he would hurt me, but I’m not afraid of him because Jim said he’d take care of me.”
I stare intently at her hollow features; time and pain have slowly chiseled away a once beautiful face.
There is dull nothingness in her eyes, and it pains me to realize that she has gotten worse.
“I have to go now.” the sound of my own voice breaks her monotonous rambling.
She is quiet for once, and only watches with a sad stillness as I get up to leave.
I kiss her gently on the cheek and walk to the door. I never hear her follow me, but I know she’s always behind me. Her frail hand touches by arm, and I turn to look at her.
“Will you come again?” she asks. A longingness fills her eyes, but she says nothing more. I give her a gentle, reassuring smile, but say nothing .
As I drive away, I see her watching from the window, and I sadly realize that
We both know this is good bye.

The God of Narcotics Salesmen

Our father who art in heaven hallowed be thy name... Oh, forget that, I can never remember the whole thing anyway. God, ya know I haven't always been your best servant. Ya know I have sinned many times over, but ya have to help me. I mean your the Man, you're God, ya have to help me right? I mean I'm in deep man, real deep. There are cops all over the place and I'm going down for sure without some divine intervention, and I mean pronto. I didn't do anything all that messed-up. I was just selling a few of your own natural concoctions. ya know what I mean, the kind of nirvana that comes in a vial. How can it be bad when everyone is doing it? Why are they after me? Tony's been working the street corners selling the shit all day and night. Why don't they go after him? I'm a small-time man. Maybe you can work a deal so they end up with somebody else, one of the big time players, like Tony or Duante. Oh man, they's gonna come down this alley fo' sure! They just can't drag me in an' lock me up.

I'm young, got my whole life ahead of me. I haven't even had a kid yet, well, not one that counts, anyway. If you get me out of this mess I'll do anything. I'll even get a job at the meat packing plant on the side. I'll get married and live an honest life. I'll even become a minister.

or a nun or somethin'. I'll do anything, just don't let me go to jail. Don't let me die, neither, that's almost as bad. I just want to keep on a doin'... Uh, never mind. I mean I want to help you in your great and wonderful plan or whatever it is you want me to do. Tell you what, if you let me off I won't sell to anyone under the age of six anymore. Deal? OK, OK how 'bout ten man, does ten sound like a good figure to ya? If I don't sell nothin' to anyone under ten, will ya let me out of this? I won't even give 'em freebies. I won't even make recruiting trips to the playground anymore. Just get me outta this big damn mess. Wait. Those cops ain't even coming over here. They's walking down to the donut shop at the end of the street. Oh well, back to work. Times are tough, I gotta make a livin' somehow.

Goose

The dim, immense room played host to our small group, standing in a perfectly straight line. The only heat we felt was of that coming from ourselves.

"Children, listen!" the nun barked. "Please seat yourselves accordingly and we shall begin," she said, her voice reverberating off the walls.

Quickly we arranged ourselves in the proper order, girl, boy, girl, boy. Our mouths refused to open and our shoulders hunched up as the nun walked around our circle. Eyes shifted as quickly as darts as the nun passed each of us.

Suddenly, thousands of thoughts began to rack my brain. "What if I were picked? Would I be up to the task? Or would I fail and be disgraced forever?"

The beads of sweat rolled down the curve of my back as I awaited my fate. The nun's heavy shoes clopped closer to me. They stepped to a distinct rhythm. Maybe it was a death march. A breeze shifted my shirt and made the sweat on my back feel like ice. Suddenly, the clopping stopped. The shoes shifted on their toes and two final knocks sounded before a hand came down on my shoulder. The cold clamminess of the hand drew the life out of me. My fate had been chosen and confirmed by the children in the circle. Their eyes, burning through my chest, told the story in eerie detail.

So, as slowly as the sun rises, I began my trek. A blind Samson had more poise than I did while walking that circle. As I trudged along, the nun stepped back, an evil grin covering her face as she watched my every move. Tapping each child, I shuffled around the circle twice before the decision was clear. Nearing my victim, a gush of blood swept through all of my limbs causing them to tingle in anticipation. My timid hand reached out, gently pushing against his shoulder. Just as I lifted my hand, my jaw dropped and a rush of air streamed through my vocal cords and into the once silent room.

Suddenly I was off, running, head tucked down, looking only at the backs of the other children in the circle. Nothing was silent now. All voices seemed to be pushing the limits of their existence, but still they ran out, "Get her!" Even the nun joined in on the raucous chanting, her skirt shifting as she danced lightly on her toes. But safety beckoned just a few bodies ahead, and surviving in its haven would be me. Everything became a blur as my body took flight and soared toward the former spot of my victim. A gust of air blew by me as my victim passed me, unable to lay a hand upon me. And there my body rested, the victor in Duck, Duck, Goose.

Ruined Youth

You stare at me with burning eyes as I walk down this street covered with confetti to glamorize publicity shots but there is no glamour in this march when you cheer incessantly like crying children as I am thrust into this inescapable death trap

Steel bullets pushing through dirt laden skin erupting into shards of metal inside young flesh only sixteen and his eyes are eternally closed plaintive cries piercing through smoky skies limp maimed bodies blanketing the ground
“let God sort them out” an enemy wailed

Guns pulsate loudly penetrating unhearing ears fighter planes gather overhead like a myriad of bees swarming to envelop their prey waste high in ever thickening quagmire praying for a day with solid ground and the silencing of the guns, and peace

You lower your head when you see that I walk through the now empty streets with the glamour of war faded to a dull gray when the ones you love are unable to walk and I am sorry that, in my ignorance,
I was not brave enough to say No.

Lizards

It slept contentedly on the broad leaf.
A warm ray of sunshine fell pleasantly over its slender body and long tail.
The defined rib cage moved slowly
as the creature inhaled and exhaled the clear air.
I crept forward cautiously, making no noise.

It sensed my presence.
Two vivid brown eyes, rimmed in sapphire, snapped open, glinting silver in the hot rays of light.
The well-defined chin raised the arrowed nose high into the air, revealing a graceful white throat sprinkled with deep magenta.
The scaly green body went rigid, the spine rose,
its eyelids blackened blotting out the sapphire.
The elongated toes grasped the sides of the leaf with sharp toenails, and the creature blew out a colorful pink fan from its throat.
I didn't move,
but stood fascinated watching the menacing creature.

Finally, it decided that I was no threat, but just a new piece of scenery.
The body relaxed.
the black faded away from its eyes.
It moved slightly to reach some water on its leaf and swallowed pleasurabley, enjoying life.

Another one, wilder than he, appeared suddenly.
She had watched the ceremony with curiosity.
She wanted water and so leaped on to his leaf.
This annoyed him for a second,
but her little fiery ruby eyes relaxed him.
She stretched out in silent repose.

He rested his sweet anole head on hers.
The sun rays held them together in a warm embrace.
A solitary golden scale on top of his head gleamed with intensity.

Both pairs of lizards eyes closed
He loved.
I loved them.

Cringing, I let out a soft cry as his cold hands touched my warm, moist skin. With a long grunt I began to settle down and smile to my self as he caressed me. The constant friction began to make his cold hands warm against my pink, tender flesh. Closing my eyes, I sighed loudly out of pleasure. As he continued to massage my pinkness with gentle calming strokes, I looked around desperately for something to bite down on. Spotting my favorite treat, I groaned. Seeing its long stiffness made my eyes bulge as I began to salivate. Grabbing a hold of it with my mouth I swashed it around, sucking all the taste out of it. His hands were becoming more persistent and grew damp. Chewing harder I groaned as I released a creamy milk into his hands. "Keep on going. That's a girl." He encouraged me as I filled his bucket with milk.

Rika Alone

All my life, I have had a fear of being left alone. Wait. That really didn't come out the way that I intended. Rather than saying I'm afraid to be left alone, I would like to say that I become scared when I am left alone. If I was more careful about my word order, I'm sure that the other thoughts I have had would come out much clearer. Instead of saying, "I have a big cat." I would say, "I am big with a cat." Much more lucid, eh?

Well back to my original point. ( And now that I have looked at the first line of my paper, I can remember what it was. ) I hate being left alone. Wait—that's not really true. Being an only child I have been left alone quite a lot. My parents used to lock me in the basement with a week's supply of rations to tide me over. They always came back before the food ran out. Except that one month where I became so emaciated that if I bumped into anything I would have a deep bone bruise. But I digress.

I don't mind being left alone, and in fact, I sometimes prefer it. At least when you're alone you don't have to worry about carrying on a conversation. You don't notice the awkward silences between you and your partner and don't feel as if you must fill that void. Of course this is all inconsequential if your imaginary friend is in the room. Then you're alone, but not really. I guess you can never really be alone because you're always with yourself. Doesn't make for much varied conversation.

But being left alone-like in a dark room, or in an empty house can be pretty scary. My parents ( after the police had a long talk with them about my confinement in the cellar ) leave me to mind the house sometimes. I can go anywhere I want, but it seems that whenever my parents are gone and I have total freedom, no one wants to know me. Example: I'll call up my supposedly best friend, begging her to come watch a movie with me. Heck, she can even spend the night if she so feels. What is the response I get? "Sorry, tonight's quality time with my parents and I have to wash my hair." What kind of sick quality time is this, is what I'm thinking. Do mom and dad put you in the tub and wash your hair?

So I'm left to fend for myself in the empty house. Daylight hours are okay because then I can take a walk or con my friends into doing something. But night time leaves my helpless. I sit and watch the HBO Saturday night movie. ( Have you noticed the ad HBO has? It says there is a new movie every week. Well, I've seen some repeats. ) Or maybe I venture to Blockbuster. Ah, just me, myself, an I. Not to mention that sound I hear upstairs. "Nothing but the wind banging the shutters," I say to myself. Just wait a second! I don't have shutters that can flap in the breeze! ( I do have shutters, but my parents have so kindly nailed them shut over my window. ) "Is a burglar in the house?" I ask myself. "What could he possibly want? The only thing downstairs is the TV, so I should be safe. I'll just grab that baseball bat to be safe."

Unfortunately, this is a best case scenario for me. Normally, I have an overwhelming fear that little aliens with disproportionately sized eyes are raiding my kitchen, looking for all the spatulas they can use to repair their ship. Here is when I panic and contemplate calling 911. Two problems come immediately to mind, however. One, the operator will probably just think that I am crazy. Two, I don't know the number. These facts rule out an emergency call. I could get a bat and attack the aliens, but I'm sure that their deatomizers will take care of me in a snap. Therefore, I'm left with only one choice: the safest, wisest, and most effective way to combat the alien burglars upstairs. I'll hide under the covers. At least from this position I can still watch the movie and am totally camouflaged. Also you get so warm and snugly that if alien were to try and nab you, you'd probably kill them for trying to take you out of your nice, cozy cocoon.

So being alone after all can be a good thing. You learn to confront your fears and take everything in stride. But just as a precaution, have a thick blanket near you when you're by yourself.

Dear Santa, Dear Venus,

Dear Santa,
Dear Nicholas,
I'm writing to say;
I'm sorry I sent E-mail,
Last Christmas Eve day.

I don't hope you're electrocuted
In a luminescent flash,
Or that your sleigh goes down
In a fiery crash.

I'm sorry that my letter
Was written so crass.
I further hope a toy train
Does not run up your ass.

I'm sorry that I wrote it.
I was bitter on that day.
I'm almost hesitant to mention
What else I have to say.

When you fly around this Christmas
Giving gifts to all the rest
Of the children of the world,
I have this one request.

There's but one thing this season
That I've been thinking of.
If you think it might be possible,
Could you send me a love?

I don't want planes or trains, or Nickelodeon brand floam.
I don't want Gargoyle action figs,
Or a cute little lawn gnome.

All these things are asked for.

So superficially.

What I want is to meet a girl,
Both intellectual and pretty.

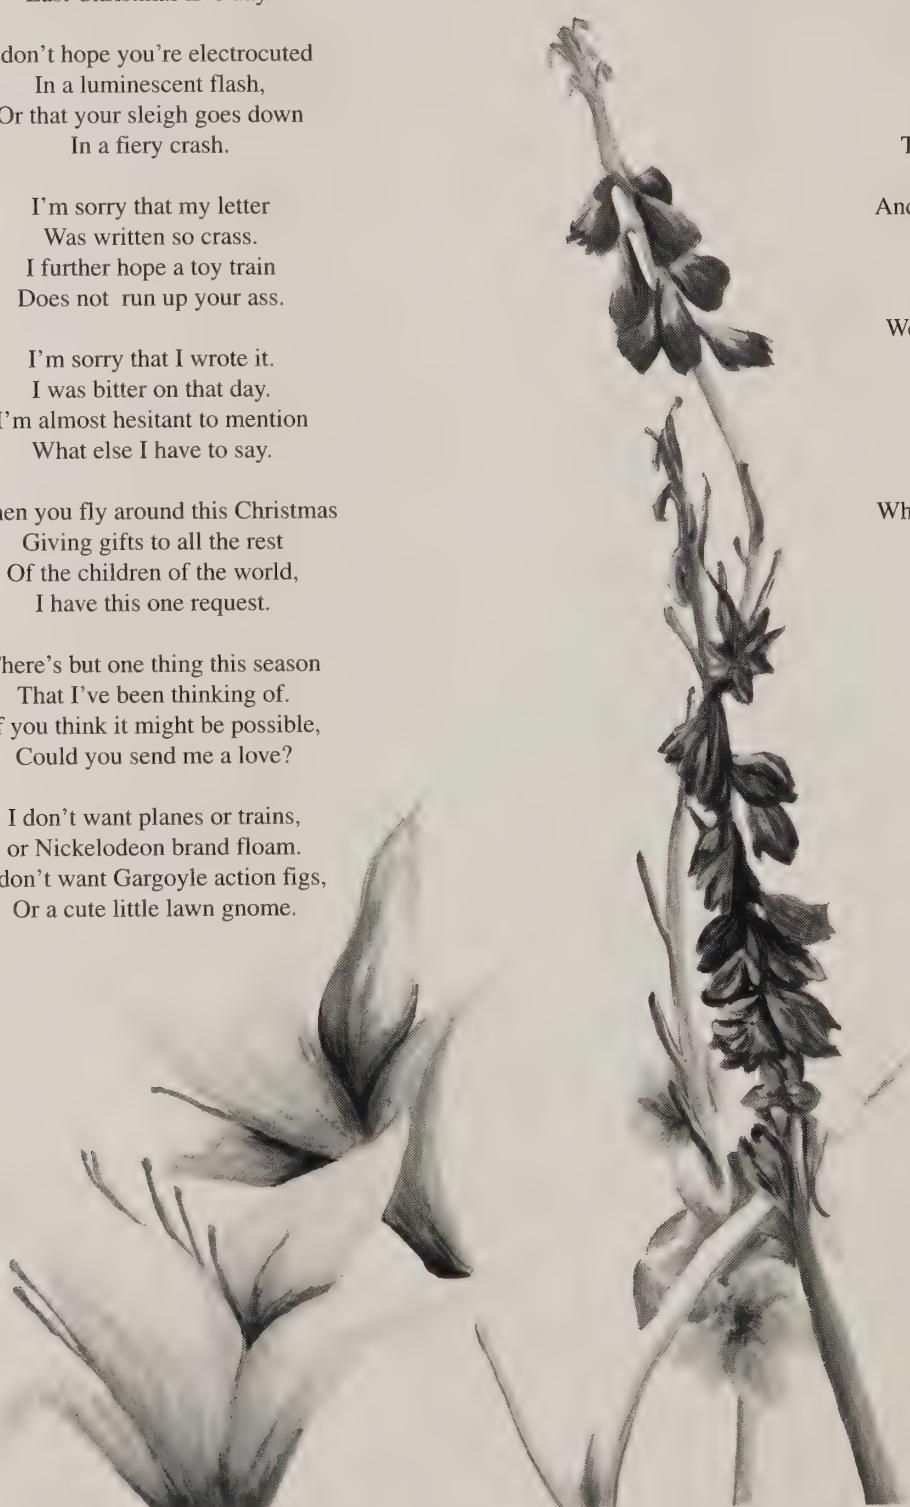

A girl with a heart of gold,
With a wit both wry and droll.
With a pretty to-me-face.
And a beautiful-to-me soul.

A girl with an inner glow,
That shines as brightly as my own.
Who I could give my love to,
And whose love would be to me shown.

So Santa, if it's possible,
And I do not ask this lightly,
Would you please pass this request on
To the lovely Aphrodite?

And ask her please to aid,
In an epically quixotic quest,
A true and hopeless romantic
Who seems truly romantically hopeless.

THE TREE

I saw an enormous tree standing tall on a hillside right in the path of the sun blocking the rays from blinding me aged branches
scraggling like an octopus still holding strong growing from a little tyke of a sapling to a strong man a hero to look up to standing proud among his admirers with his roots tracing through the earth a long life with many rings
rung through the trunk where a battered heart rests many years with many months with many days days of aching bones pains stricken the old man though strong and wise age slows him down
knowing he will soon die
he lives on healthy a new year passes by the bitter winter comes snow covers the branches sparsely like gray hair showing the age of an old man a veteran spring gently roles in the cold is gone leaves are green again rejuvenated with youth out of hibernation alive, like a child
the blistering heat wears the tree down to a morbid sulky depression beaten by summer storms thunder and lighting
many are killed while survivors show their strength the briskness of fall arrives leaves show their beauty before departing to the ground like the hair of a stressed man dreading the return of yet another winter and many to follow another year another ring rung around the trunk happy birthday old man.

The Wind

A warm breeze gently passes through.
Playfully it dances with the leaves.
On a whim it changes direction and force.
For a long time it is calm and unemotional.
Slowly anger builds up.
Clear thinking is clouded over with rage.
Sharp gusts bite everything in its path.
Passion builds and it swirls into a hurricane.
Coldly, everything once loved is destroyed in a blind fury.
Only when everything is gone does it slow down.
Once peaceful, the pain caused is forgotten.
Then as if nothing happened,
A warm breeze gently passes through.

THE DIVERSITY OF BLACK SKIN

My skin is as rich as fresh-turned soil
Deep and brown and bright
A different hue, a darker tint
A sister to the night.

My people, descendants of African kings
United by our shades
Charcoal to send, mahogany to tan
An ethnic rainbow made.

My ancestors, linked by a common pigment
As they travelled the trails they trod
Led by the star flung to the North Led by Moses' rod.

Our many pigments, diverse yet shared:
From strange cultures to familiar kin
Bound by a kaleidoscope of vibrant colors
The diversity of black skin.

Eyes penetrating pieces as General watches His troops falling to miscalculations-side effects
Each advance confusing the last the struggle becoming tedium
Grunts were the first sacrifices for the calvary to enact their attack
Holy men not excluded
All for the protection of their monarch
All for the protection of their monarch
Majesty watches Lofty
His henchmen removed from His realm and set to the side as prisoners of war
Then just as instantaneous as it began the battle ends Trapped with no where to escape and no infantry to call on the king surrenders his crown
